Swine flu feared in mysterious deaths

by KURT BAER

Speculation that 20 mysterious deaths in Pennsylvania may be the result of swine flu spurred new efforts Tuesday to resolve problems that have stalled a nationwide vaccination program.

Health officials speculated that a virus was responsible for death and illness among persons who attended a state American Legion convention in Philadelphia last month. They said the deaths were due primarily to viral pneumonia with flu-like symptoms but could not make a firm diagnosis.

If a virus is the cause, there is little doctors can do but ease the symptoms of those who are ill, officials said.

Laboratory test results that may pinpoint the cause of the baffling illness are expected Thursday. Technicians are working day and night in special labs designed to prevent the spread of the disease.

PRODUCTION OF swine flu vaccine has been slowed and immunization plans in Cook County postponed because four drug firms producing the vaccine have not reached agreement with insurance companies on liability coverage in the event of lawsuits arising from immunization.

In Washington, a House subcommittee Tuesday night approved legislation to end the legal tangle which has stalled the nationwide swine flu inoculation program. "It's not a time for us to banter about legalisms," said Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., who also is a physician. "If the situation in Pennsylvania turns out to be swine flu, we want to be able to act rapidly because of the quick spreading that can and already has developed," said Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the Health subcommittee that passed the measure.

Under the subcommittee plan, persons injured by the swine flu vaccine could sue the U.S. government. The government in turn could sue the drug companies which made the vaccine, or anyone else who was negligent, to collect what the government had to pay out in the initial suit.

In theory, the government would thus be used as a filter to keep nuisance suits away from the drug companies and allow them to get insurance for the more serious cases.

U.S. Health Education and Welfare Sec. David Matthews told the subcommittee members that there is not hard evidence to implicate swine flu in the deaths, but said he favored the legislation ending the legal liability of the vaccine manufacturers.

Pennsylvania Health Sec. told the committee before their vote on the measure that state and federal investigation had indicated the disease probably was a virus.

The type of virus and the way in which it is transmitted still are unknown, although one doctor said it appears the disease is spread "the same way the common cold is." There were

Hospitals report no panic in area — yet

by DAN BARREIRO

Call it "wait and panic." That's how one area hospital official described concern that the mysterious illness which has killed 20 persons in Pennsylvania may be swine flu.

At least one person wouldn't wait, however. She entered Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village Tuesday, fearful that she might have swine flu.

"But it was determined that she didn't have it and she was not admitted," said Shirley Garrison, public relations director.

Officials at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights; Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, and Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, reported no calls about concern with the Pennsylvania problem or about swine flu in this area. But Ann Finney, public relations officer at Northwest Community, said it could be the calm before the storm.

"If they confirm that it's swine flu," she said, "we'll get calls. If it's swine flu, I'll guarantee we'll start getting plenty of calls."

SOME AREA RESIDENTS said they are concerned about the possibility of a swine flu epidemic, but still others apparently are perplexed by the controversy.

"I think the whole thing about swine flu has been overplayed a bit," said Helen Boeff of Rolling Meadows. "I don't think I need a shot. If it's going to hurt me, it's going to hurt me."

Kathleen Marek of Arlington Heights said, "I think they'll find it's swine flu."

If a swine flu epidemic does sweep the United States, it will be a nightmare revisited for 71-year-old Carl Peterson of Arlington Heights. Peterson was 12 when the swine flu epidemic began in 1918.

"I was raised in northern Michigan and my folks had a boarding house," he said. "Everything was quarantined. You couldn't go anywhere and the doctors didn't know what they were up against. They didn't know what to do. In that period it was a matter of luck whether or not you lived."

McDonald basin urged to control creek flooding

A permanent flood control basin to offset increased flooding along McDonald Creek was recommended Tuesday by the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

A basin was recommended by R. J. Peterson and Associates, village flooding engineers, because channel improvements along the creek would have worsened flood problems downstream. The basin, according to engineers, will not alleviate flooding conditions, but will prevent a worsening of them.

At the last committee meeting, Robert Peterson submitted two alternatives for the basin, but both basin proposals would have had dry-bottoms. Peterson presented a new proposal at Tuesday's session that called for a basin with a permanent water depth of 3½ feet, with a three-foot flood capacity.

PETERSON TOLD the committee most of the money spent on the dry basins would be lost when it was incorporated in the planned Lake Arlington project. However, the permanent basin, would become an extension of the lake, and save money in the long run, he said.

The wet bottom basin would cost an estimated $462,000 as opposed to the dry bottom basins' estimates of $511,400 and $268,000. Channel improvements for the creek will cost about $334,400.

Peterson said a permanent basin would have a pebbled shore line with additional landscaping. He said the basin would have recreational possibilities, such as canoeing or sailboating.

TRUSTEE Frank Palmatier, committee chairman, said funding of the project still is uncertain. Palmatier said the possibility of receiving state money to help underwrite part of the project should be investigated.

Village-issued bonds could be used to finance all or part of it, he said.

The project will be presented to the village board for consideration at their next meeting. If the village approves the basin and channel improvements, they still must be authorized by the Illinois Dept. of Waterways.

No one's got a lock on nomination: Morton

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's campaign manager said Tuesday it is not possible for either Ford or challenger Ronald Reagan to go to the Republican convention with a "lockup" of delegate votes to win the party's presidential nomination.

Rogers C.B. Morton made the remark in the midst of a pitched battle between Ford and Reagan to win commitments from the more than 100 convention delegates currently listed as uncommitted.

Morton also disclosed that there was one woman included on a list of eight possible vice presidential candidates recommended to Ford last weekend by a group of state delegation chairmen from the Northeast.

Morton insisted Ford has the support of four more than the necessary 1,130 delegates to win the nomination, but he conceded the outcome at the convention was still uncertain.

UPI's nationwide survey shows Ford with 1,121 votes, nine short of the number needed for the nomination. Reagan had 1,030, or 100 less than needed and there were 108 delegates uncommitted.

"We think we're going to go there with a positive margin and we expect to win on the first ballot," Morton said. "But I don't think there's any lockup available."

He said Reagan's selection last week of liberal Sen. Richard Schweiker as a potential running mate did little to change the situation. "From a delegate count, there hasn't been much change in the inventory," he said.

Morton said the announcement had a "softening" effect on some delegates who favor Reagan. "It has taken a great deal of zeal out of the zealots," he said. But he added it has not yet worked to Ford's advantage.

"It's potential for bringing unde-

A group of youngsters flocked around the white goat, Vanilla, in front of Roycemore School in Evanston.

Vanilla is more than a goat to these youngsters and the school. He symbolizes the theme of the gifted program offered at the school this summer — "Not Just Vanilla."

Four students from Arlington Heights Dist. 25 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 attended the program for students who show exceptional talent in such areas as academics, the fine arts, leadership and physical fitness.

The program also is set up to teach 25 teachers in the masters' program at Northwestern University about gifted students and programs. With about 60 students enrolled in the program, there was approximately one teacher for every two pupils.

THE THEME of the program identified the central focus of the lessons — to teach the youngsters and teachers that there are many ways to look at a problem.

"We encourage divergent thinking rather than convergent thinking. We have them look at more aspects of a problem," said Anne Hemwall, a coordinator for the program.

One week's lesson centered on lines. The youngsters looked at how lines are used in art, math, science and the world around them.

Two of the students, including Amy Albert entering fifth grade at Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, were particularly interested in science. Roycemore arranged to have the youngsters attend biology classes at Northwestern for a week. During that time, the classmates dissected a pig.

SUSAN ZEISER, coordinator of the program for Northwestern, said the activities "reawaken and stimulate the student's interest in an area they have special talent in."

Mrs. Zeiser said they also teach the teachers to identify the difference between inventiveness and rebelliousness.

The youngsters from Arlington Heights who attended the program unanimously agreed art was the most interesting subject at the school.

But they enjoyed the freedom given them to pursue different aspects of regular academic studies.

"WE GET to use our own minds," said Amy. "It's our choice."

"Language arts was the most down-to-earth thing we did," said Jennifer Coyne entering sixth grade at South Junior High School. "They gave you a different point of view from what you're doing in school."

Amy and Jennifer said they enjoyed interpreting books and poems they read as well as performing plays.

Joseph Wanner entering fifth grade at Kensington School said one of his favorite projects was "being a city in social studies." The youngsters developed a city, electing city officials and mapping out plans for the future.

"You were able to be a city, not just read about cities," he said.

AMY SAID the number of teachers added to the program too. "There is a whole bunch of teachers, so you can

Alderman urges residency rule

A Des Plaines alderman has recommended the city either enact a residency requirement for new employes or give city residents preference in hiring. Ald. John Seitz, 7th, said he believes it would be beneficial to the city to have its employes residing in the community where they work. Seitz said he is not suggesting the law be made retroactive similar to an ordinance in Chicago, but that new employes be required to live in the city. Until 1971, city police and firefighters were required to live in the city. "I think the employe who lives here is more dedicated and possibly a more available employe in the event of emergencies," Seitz said.

Pal-Waukee seeks disannex

George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee Airport, Tuesday said he plans to file for disannexation from the City of Prospect Heights, which incorporated in January. Priester said his attorneys have told him the newly elected city officials cannot legally assure him there will be no attempted interference in airport operations. "It is a brand new city that hasn't even got its zoning ordinances together yet. It's going to take a while. The officials are very good people and sincere, but I can't take a chance of jeopardizing the operation of this airport," Priester said. About half the 40-acre airport is included in the city's boundaries, which were established by an incorporation referendum in January. City officials had said they hoped to annex the rest of the airport.

Murder suspect in court

A 27-year-old Palatine man charged with the murder of his wife is scheduled to be arraigned Aug. 23 in the Evanston branch of Cook County Circuit Court. David Rhoads, 409 N. Northwest Hwy., was scheduled to be arraigned Monday. The arraignment was continued, however, until Rhoads could be examined by a court-appointed psychiatrist. Rhoads has been charged with using gasoline July 17 to set fire to his wife Vicki, 18, at the home of her parents at 306 N. Morris Dr. Palatine. Mrs. Rhoads died July 18 in the burns unit of a Chicago hospital. Rhoads is being held without bond in the Cook County Jail, Chicago.

Parking fees up to 50 cents

An ordinance increasing parking meter rates from 30 to 50 cents in the Maple Street parking lot in downtown Mount Prospect was adopted Tuesday night by the village board. Village Personnel Director Edward Geick said new 12-hour parking rates will become effective as soon as parts needed to change the meters are obtained. "We hope its sometime this week," he said. The rate hike is expected to generate an additional $10,000 annually from the 200 meters used in the village-owned Maple Street lot. All-day parking already is 50 cents in three other downtown commuter lots owned by the Chicago & North Western Ry.

Dems facing school aid split?

by STEVE BROWN

ROCKFORD — An apparent split developed Tuesday between several of the Democratic statewide candidates over whether Chicago public schools should be penalized for closing early.

The controversy began Monday in Peoria when Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, the Democrat gubernatorial candidate said he opposed legislation that would relieve Chicago schools of a $55 million penalty for closing 16 days early last spring.

However, both Lt. Gov. Neil F. Hartigan and State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, a candidate for attorney general, hinted they supported the so-called hold-harmless legislation, which is awaitng action by Gov. Daniel Walker.

Both Hartigan and Partee declined to support Howlett's stand on the issue during the press conference here. Later Hartigan told the Herald that "it would be too bad to start the campaign with a disagreement between the governor and the lieutenant governor."

PARTEE'S ONLY response when asked for his reaction to Howlett's statement was, "Let's not get into that."

Hartigan initially said he wanted to talk to Howlett and Michael Bakalis, a candidate for comptroller who also supports the hold-harmless legislation, before commenting. However, after conferring with Howlett, he continued to decline to make a public statement.

The fifth member of the statewide Democratic ticket, State Treasurer Alan Dixon, a candidate for secretary of state, came down on both sides of the issue in reacting to Howlett's decision. He said while he was opposed to penalizing school children, he felt the elimination of the penalty could set a dangerous precedent.

If Walker approves the hold-harmless legislation, which is part of a bill revising the school aid formula, the over-all amount of money for school districts throughout the state will be reduced. But if the governor vetoes the legislation, it will almost certainly trigger a vigorous veto override attempt in the Illinois General Assembly next fall.

The apparent split among the Democratic candidates began as they started the second in a series of Downstate hearings on a variety of issues. Tuesday's session concentrated on jobs and the Illinois economy. The candidates heard from more than a dozen business leaders, union officials, and private citizens during the three-hour hearing.

MUCH OF THE testimony was aimed at problems in the Rockford area, which has suffered high unemployment in recent months. However, a number of witnesses also discussed statewide topics.

Two coal company officials complained to the candidates that strict state environmental regulations hurt the ability of miners to produce coal in Illinois. They joined in a call for easing regulations until economical technology could be developed to make coal clean burning. They also agreed with a suggestion by Hartigan that the state develop a comprehensive energy policy. Several business leaders, William Stowe, of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and Farnsley Peters of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce urged that state government hold the line on spending and not raise taxes in an attempt to improve the business climate in Illinois.

Earlier in the day, Dixon had predicted there would be no need for a tax increase over the next two fiscal years. Several other witnesses called for new laws to ban no-return bottles and create training programs for Spanish-speaking persons as a means of creating new jobs. A representative for the Illinois Environmental Council said studies have shown the ban on no-return bottles increases employment in the bottling industry.

Reliable quake forecast 'possible in 10 years'

by AL ROSSITER JR.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a report coincidentally released at the time of the great earthquake in China, a committee of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences said routine and reliable quake predictions may be possible within the next decade in some areas of the United States.

But the study group said, "the apparent public impression that routine prediction of earthquakes is imminent is not warranted by the present level of scientific understanding."

The 12-member panel of scientists said "a truly effective" national earthquake forecast program will require expenditures several times greater than the $10 million the United States now spends annually on earthquake research.

CHINA, THE report said, is believed to be making an effort with an equivalent value of $100 million in the field of earthquake prediction.

"To put these expenditures into perspective," the report said, "it has been estimated that a great earthquake today, such as the 1906 San Francisco earthquake or the great earthquake on the San Andreas Fault near Los Angeles in 1857, could claim more than 10,000 lives and cause damage exceeding $10 billion."

The eartquake that caused widespread death and destruction last week in China was classified "great" on the basis of its recorded magnitude of 8.2 on the Richter scale.

Chinese scientists have been credited with predicting a major earthquake last year in Liaoning Province. The committee report said that forecast may have saved thousands of lives.

CHINA HAS A long history of seismic disasters and the world's largest recorded earthquake death toll came in 1556 when at least 820,000 people were killed in Shensi Province. An earthquake in Kansu Province killed 180,000 in 1920.

A report by a team of American scientists which visited China in 1974 recommended that the United States begin a cooperative earthquake research effort with China.

The Academy committee report noted that American scientists have already predicted some small tremors in a scientifically credible way. The scientists said a scientific prediction will probably be made within the next five years for an earthquake of magnitude 5 or more in California.

"With appropriate commitment, the routine announcement of reliable predictions may be possible within 10 years in well instrumented areas, although large earthquakes may present a particularly difficult problem," it said.

The scientists said about 10 types of physical phenomena preceding earthquakes have been identified but that theories explaining them are still crude.

Alderman urges residency rule

A Des Plaines alderman has recommended the city either enact a residency requirement for new employes or give city residents preference in hiring. Ald. John Seitz, 7th, said he believes it would be beneficial to the city to have its employes residing in the community where they work. Seitz said he is not suggesting the law be made retroactive similar to an ordinance in Chicago, but that new employes be required to live in the city. Until 1971, city police and firefighters were required to live in the city. "I think the employe who lives here is more dedicated and possibly a more available employe in the event of emergencies," Seitz said.

Pal-Waukee seeks disannex

George Priester, owner of Pal-Waukee Airport, Tuesday said he plans to file for disannexation from the City of Prospect Heights, which incorporated in January. Priester said his attorneys have told him the newly elected city officials cannot legally assure him there will be no attempted interference in airport operations. "It is a brand new city that hasn't even got its zoning ordinances together yet. It's going to take a while. The officials are very good people and sincere, but I can't take a chance of jeopardizing the operation of this airport," Priester said. About half the 40-acre airport is included in the city's boundaries, which were established by an incorporation referendum in January. City officials had said they hoped to annex the rest of the airport.

Murder suspect in court

A 27-year-old Palatine man charged with the murder of his wife is scheduled to be arraigned Aug. 23 in the Evanston branch of Cook County Circuit Court. David Rhoads, 409 N. Northwest Hwy., was scheduled to be arraigned Monday. The arraignment was continued, however, until Rhoads could be examined by a court-appointed psychiatrist. Rhoads has been charged with using gasoline July 17 to set fire to his wife Vicki, 18, at the home of her parents at 306 N. Morris Dr. Palatine. Mrs. Rhoads died July 18 in the burns unit of a Chicago hospital. Rhoads is being held without bond in the Cook County Jail, Chicago.

Parking fees up to 50 cents

An ordinance increasing parking meter rates from 30 to 50 cents in the Maple Street parking lot in downtown Mount Prospect was adopted Tuesday night by the village board. Village Personnel Director Edward Geick said new 12-hour parking rates will become effective as soon as parts needed to change the meters are obtained. "We hope its sometime this week," he said. The rate hike is expected to generate an additional $10,000 annually from the 200 meters used in the village-owned Maple Street lot. All-day parking already is 50 cents in three other downtown commuter lots owned by the Chicago & North Western Ry.

Controversy over Chicago penalty

Dems facing school aid split?

by STEVE BROWN

ROCKFORD — An apparent split developed Tuesday between several of the Democratic statewide candidates over whether Chicago public schools should be penalized for closing early.

The controversy began Monday in Peoria when Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett, the Democrat gubernatorial candidate said he opposed legislation that would relieve Chicago schools of a $55 million penalty for closing 16 days early last spring.

However, both Lt. Gov. Neil F. Hartigan and State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, a candidate for attorney general, hinted they supported the so-called hold-harmless legislation, which is awaitng action by Gov. Daniel Walker.

Both Hartigan and Partee declined to support Howlett's stand on the issue during the press conference here. Later Hartigan told the Herald that "it would be too bad to start the campaign with a disagreement between the governor and the lieutenant governor."

PARTEE'S ONLY response when asked for his reaction to Howlett's statement was, "Let's not get into that."

Hartigan initially said he wanted to talk to Howlett and Michael Bakalis, a candidate for comptroller who also supports the hold-harmless legislation, before commenting. However, after conferring with Howlett, he continued to decline to make a public statement.

The fifth member of the statewide Democratic ticket, State Treasurer Alan Dixon, a candidate for secretary of state, came down on both sides of the issue in reacting to Howlett's decision. He said while he was opposed to penalizing school children, he felt the elimination of the penalty could set a dangerous precedent.

If Walker approves the hold-harmless legislation, which is part of a bill revising the school aid formula, the over-all amount of money for school districts throughout the state will be reduced. But if the governor vetoes the legislation, it will almost certainly trigger a vigorous veto override attempt in the Illinois General Assembly next fall.

The apparent split among the Democratic candidates began as they started the second in a series of Downstate hearings on a variety of issues. Tuesday's session concentrated on jobs and the Illinois economy. The candidates heard from more than a dozen business leaders, union officials, and private citizens during the three-hour hearing.

MUCH OF THE testimony was aimed at problems in the Rockford area, which has suffered high unemployment in recent months. However, a number of witnesses also discussed statewide topics.

Two coal company officials complained to the candidates that strict state environmental regulations hurt the ability of miners to produce coal in Illinois. They joined in a call for easing regulations until economical technology could be developed to make coal clean burning. They also agreed with a suggestion by Hartigan that the state develop a comprehensive energy policy. Several business leaders, William Stowe, of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and Farnsley Peters of the Rockford Chamber of Commerce urged that state government hold the line on spending and not raise taxes in an attempt to improve the business climate in Illinois.

Earlier in the day, Dixon had predicted there would be no need for a tax increase over the next two fiscal years. Several other witnesses called for new laws to ban no-return bottles and create training programs for Spanish-speaking persons as a means of creating new jobs. A representative for the Illinois Environmental Council said studies have shown the ban on no-return bottles increases employment in the bottling industry.

Reliable quake forecast 'possible in 10 years'

by AL ROSSITER JR.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a report coincidentally released at the time of the great earthquake in China, a committee of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences said routine and reliable quake predictions may be possible within the next decade in some areas of the United States.

But the study group said, "the apparent public impression that routine prediction of earthquakes is imminent is not warranted by the present level of scientific understanding."

The 12-member panel of scientists said "a truly effective" national earthquake forecast program will require expenditures several times greater than the $10 million the United States now spends annually on earthquake research.

CHINA, THE report said, is believed to be making an effort with an equivalent value of $100 million in the field of earthquake prediction.

"To put these expenditures into perspective," the report said, "it has been estimated that a great earthquake today, such as the 1906 San Francisco earthquake or the great earthquake on the San Andreas Fault near Los Angeles in 1857, could claim more than 10,000 lives and cause damage exceeding $10 billion."

The eartquake that caused widespread death and destruction last week in China was classified "great" on the basis of its recorded magnitude of 8.2 on the Richter scale.

Chinese scientists have been credited with predicting a major earthquake last year in Liaoning Province. The committee report said that forecast may have saved thousands of lives.

CHINA HAS A long history of seismic disasters and the world's largest recorded earthquake death toll came in 1556 when at least 820,000 people were killed in Shensi Province. An earthquake in Kansu Province killed 180,000 in 1920.

A report by a team of American scientists which visited China in 1974 recommended that the United States begin a cooperative earthquake research effort with China.

The Academy committee report noted that American scientists have already predicted some small tremors in a scientifically credible way. The scientists said a scientific prediction will probably be made within the next five years for an earthquake of magnitude 5 or more in California.

"With appropriate commitment, the routine announcement of reliable predictions may be possible within 10 years in well instrumented areas, although large earthquakes may present a particularly difficult problem," it said.

The scientists said about 10 types of physical phenomena preceding earthquakes have been identified but that theories explaining them are still crude.

FTC probe of auto prices

WASHINGTON (UPI — The Federal Trade Commission Tuesday announced an antitrust investigation of the automobile industry that will delve into such things as how prices are set and cars are distributed.

The agency said it was making the investigation public in keeping with its policy to disclose such matters, and that it was not implying there were violations of law.

In Detroit, spokesmen for two of the Big Three automakers deplored the new inquiry.

"The decision of the Federal Trade Commission to commence yet another investigation of the automobile industry is unfortunate and unnecessary," said Ford Motor Co. Pres. Lee A. Iacocca. "It's another example of a costly burden imposed by government which in the end must be borne by our customers."

Iacocca said he was "confident that we conduct our business in full compliance with the FTC act and other laws administered by the commission."

Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of General Motors, said the auto industry has been asked to prove once again that it is competitive and operating within the law.

"We expect to do so," Murphy said. "but deplore the waste of public and private resources that the task will entail."

The FTC said the investigation will cover the "economic structure of the American automobile industry, economic performance of firms both domestic and foreign engaged in the manufacture and distribution of automobiles and the acts, practices and methods of competition of thos firms."

Included in the investigation, the announcement said, will be "pricing policy, scale economies, vertical integration, and automobile distribution practices."

The inquiry will enable the agency to "determine whether there is reason to believe that the FTC Act or other statutes enforced by the commission were or are being violated," the announcement said.

JIMMY CARTER, Democratic presidential nominee, wades into a crowd of supporters who welcome him back Tuesday to New Hampshire at a rally in Manchester. He predicted Republicans will launch "vicious personal attacks" on the Democratic ticket in a "desperate" effort to maintain control of the White House. Carter also attended two fund-raising events.

91 evacuated from refugee camp

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Red Cross medics crawled across an open field under mortar and machine gun fire Tuesday to evacuate 91 wounded men, women and children from the besieged Tal Zaatar Palestinian camp. One rescue doctor called the operation "our most difficult since World War II."

Sporadic machine gun and mortar fire raked a sports field separating the warring factions throughout the operation which took seven hours and nearly collapsed when Christian units refused to allow Red Cross doctors take in medicine, water and blankets to the remaining wounded.

One Christian soldier, who had argued among a minority of rightists to allow at least medicines be carried in to their surrounded Moslem foes, turned away in anger.

"This is the dirtiest war in the world," he said bitterly.

It was the first time in six tries Red Cross officials had managed to bring out any of the estimated 4,000 wounded in the refugee camp in southeast Beirut, under siege by Christian forces for 44 days.

"All in all this is probably our most difficult operation since World War II," one Red Cross doctor said sfterwards. "So just getting there makes it a success."

After the convoy of nine trucks, two ambulances and two scout cars reached Moslem hospitals in the Leftist-held sector with the injured, Palestinian guerrillas fired deafening bursts of gunfire into the air to celebrate the safe arrival of their wounded comrades.

An uneasy cease-fire held for most of the operation. But the first of many tense moments came when three mortars landed close to the camp and machine gun fire erupted as the first Red Cross scout car came to fetch the waiting trucks and ambulances at the start of the operation.

Sporadic explosions and machine-gun fire crackled across the lines for about two hours and a fierce battle developed on the fringes of Ras Dikwaneh, just north of the camp. Christian forces had charged that the Palestinians were taking advatnage of the truce in order to reinforce their positions.

Despite the fighting, the Red Cross went ahead with the operation.

Swine flu feared cause of deaths

no reports Tuesday that the disease had spread to anyone who did not attend the convention.

"I THINK THAT it's most probably a virus," Bachman said. "Hospitals have very good facilities for detecting bacteria, and we would have known by now if it was bacteria."

Fifty-one throat cultures, fecal and blood samples were under study at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Dr. J. Donald Millar, director of the center's bureau of state services, said specialists were taking "what may be described as a shotgun approach" in attempting to identify the agents involved.

Millar declined to speculate about the possibility that the illness was caused by swine flu. "No matter what this turns out to be, it emphasizes the fact that swine flu could be on us in short order," he said.

PENNSYLVANIA pathologist Dr. John A. Malcolm, who performed an autopsy on one of the first victims of the disease said it appeared to him the disease was "a virus spread by respiratory contact."

Malcolm said more cases of the virus could show up later in the week because it apparently requires at least a few days incubation period before its symptoms become apparent.

AT LEAST 115 cases of the mysterious disease were reported in Pennsylvania by late Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. John Hall, director of the Cook County health department, said officials are still planning for mass swine flu inoculations in a belief that the $135 million nationwide vaccination program proposed by President Ford and approved by Congress will get off the ground.

An educator with the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, Austin Hayes, said inoculations are expected to start in the state about Oct. 1.

"We are proceeding on information that vaccine will eventually be available," he said.

HAYES SAID the deaths in Pennsylvania "definitely will have an effect on solving the (insurance) problem" if it is shown that swine flu is responsible for the illness.

But the liability problem could actually become serious if the Pennsylvania deaths are attributed to swine flu, Hall said.

"If the virus is that deadly, the question arises of how strong does the antigen have to be? A powerful vaccine "could make the problem of liability worse because of the increased likelihood of adverse reaction," Hall said.

He said the liability deadlock "was a matter of high finance between the federal government and the drug firms. I don't know where it's going to end."

NORTHWEST suburban villages and townships have made plans for the vaccine program, originally planned to start in September but postponed last week to October.

Immunization clinics are tentatively scheduled at Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove high schools, the Randhurst Shopping Center and St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, Harper College, Sanborn School, Palatine and St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg.

Approximately 200 nonprofessional and 40 professional volunteers will be needed at each clinic. High-pressure jet guns will be used to administer the vaccine.

Cook County has held workshops for volunteers and clinic managers and plans more training sessions, Hall said. Although the county has not had to spend much money on the program so far, "there has been a large investment of staff time," he said.

SYMPTOMS OF the illness reported in Pennsylvania include high fever, chills and headaches followed by a dry cough and muscle pain. Some of the most seriously ill developed fevers from 104 to 107 degrees and died in shock with extensive pneumonia.

No panic yet, local hospitals say

what's coming. You have to keep a bright outlook."

He has no doubts that "older persons who lived through the first epidemic" will want to get the flu vaccine if it ever becomes available. "Everyone should get the shot," he said.

Sixty-nine-year-old Ted Gleichman of Arlington Heights said he also will get an injection of the vaccine when it becomes available but said he is not so sure the general population would do the same.

"A lot of people only get concerned if it affects their own situation," he said. "Then when it does, they expect the world to turn upside down to help them."

Hays keeps post as head of subcommittee

With one dissenter, Democrats on the House International Relations Committee voted Tuesday to keep Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, as chairman of the operations subcommittee. The voice vote, behind closed doors, rejected a proposal that Hays be stripped of one of his last remaining positions of power in an extension of a movement that forced him out of two key committee chairmanships. The House Ethics Committee and the Justice Dept. are still investigating Elizabeth Ray's charges that Hays hired her for a congressional staff job in which she served solely as his mistress.

Coal reform veto defeated by Senate

The Senate voted Tuesday to override President Ford's veto of legislation to reform leasing standards for federal coal lands, rejecting arguments it would hinder domestic coal production. The vote was 75 to 18 — 13 more than the required two-thirds margin. The House is scheduled to vote on the issue today. Ford vetoed the measure July 3, saying it would hamper production from the nation's coal reserves and limit the Interior Department's flexibility in administering the lands. The President said the legislation probably would raise prices for consumers and delay the nation's energy independence. Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., floor manager for override effort, said Ford was "ill-advised and misinformed" in vetoing the bill.

Law seeking reports of foreign bribes asked

President Ford Tuesday asked Congress for a law requiring American businessmen to report bribes and extortion in foreign dealings. He said the move would help deter "improper payments in international commerce by American corporations and their officers." Ford said the reports would go to the Internal Revenue Service, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Departments of State and Justice and — after a year's time — to the public. In a message to Congress, the President also said he wants the law to permit Washington to tell foreign governments about any bribery or extortion attempts.

3 tests indicate no sign of life on Mars

Viking scientists said Tuesday they have three healthy biological experiments "brewing their witches brew," on Mars, but none of them indicate signs of life. Operation of the third test was confirmed Tuesday. First results of the third experiment, called a pyrolytic release, indicated only that the test was going on with soil in the chamber. Dr. Norman Horowitz, a biology team member, said the first data indicates the Martian soil sample in the test chamber is in the range of Earth soils.

Texas oil exec slays two, injures two

A millionaire oil Fort Worth executive, embroiled in a bitter divorce case, went on a midnight shooting rampage in his mansion and slew his 12-year-old stepdaughter and a former college basketball star and wounded his wife and a 21-year-old man, police charged Tuesday. Cullen Davis, 40, president of Stratoflex Inc., was arrested a few hours after the slayings on his 143-acre estate. He was charged on two counts of murder and two counts of attempted murder.

Briton reported missing seen alive

One of two Britons missing and feared dead in Uganda has been seen alive by a close friend, diplomatic sources said Tuesday. But the fate of the other Englishman, reportedly arrested as a spy, was unknown. The sources said Jack Tulley, 65, a long-time resident of East Africa who disappeared a week ago, was seen by an unnamed friend in Kampala, Uganda's capital. Tulley reportedly was arrested when he asked at a police station about a friend Graham Clegg, 38, who was picked up July 27 in eastern Uganda on spying charges, according to diplomatic sources. Clegg's whereabouts were still unknown.

Morton said he had pledged himself not to disclose the names of the eight persons who were recommended to Ford as vice presidential possibilities by a group of Northeast state chairmen who met last weekend in Seal Harbor, Maine. He acknowledged one of them is a woman, but declined to disclose her name.

Anne Armstrong, ambassador to Great Britain, has often been mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate.

Morton said there has been some pressure—pressure with a little "p"—on Ford to announce his vice presidential choice before the convention. But he said he had no indication Ford intends to violate the "traditional" method for announcing his running mate.

He also said that Ford "certainly does not exclude" Vice President Nelson Rockefeller as a potential running mate.

2 bus kidnap suspects to plead innocent today

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (UPI) — Defense attorneys said Tuesday two young suspects will join their alleged accomplice and plead innocent in the kidnaping of 26 Chowchilla school children. Two of the suspects, Fred Newhall Woods and James Schoenfeld, both 24 and sons of prominent San Francisco area families, will enter their pleas today in Justice Court here, the attorneys said.

Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, 22, who also has pleaded innocent, will be brought with them to this central California farming community from jail in Alameda County east of San Francisco to ask reduction of $1 million bail.

Woods' attorney, Herbert Yanowitz, said he will ask at today's arraignment that Judge Howard C. Green keep in force a gag order on documents found by police on his client's 100-acre family estate until the trial if possible.

Investigators have said the documents include a paper bag list of the victims, a plan to kidnap a busload of children and a $5 million ransom note, reported by the Fresno Bee to have been signed "Beelsabub," an apparent misspelling of the New Testament name Beelzebub, which means Satan.

The victims, aged 5 to 14, and their busdriver, were abducted July 15 and buried in a truck in a Livermore, Calif., rock quarry owned by Woods' father. They escaped after 16 hours underground. Each of the suspects faces 43 counts of kidnaping and robbery.

FTC probe of auto prices

WASHINGTON (UPI — The Federal Trade Commission Tuesday announced an antitrust investigation of the automobile industry that will delve into such things as how prices are set and cars are distributed.

The agency said it was making the investigation public in keeping with its policy to disclose such matters, and that it was not implying there were violations of law.

In Detroit, spokesmen for two of the Big Three automakers deplored the new inquiry.

"The decision of the Federal Trade Commission to commence yet another investigation of the automobile industry is unfortunate and unnecessary," said Ford Motor Co. Pres. Lee A. Iacocca. "It's another example of a costly burden imposed by government which in the end must be borne by our customers."

Iacocca said he was "confident that we conduct our business in full compliance with the FTC act and other laws administered by the commission."

Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of General Motors, said the auto industry has been asked to prove once again that it is competitive and operating within the law.

"We expect to do so," Murphy said. "but deplore the waste of public and private resources that the task will entail."

The FTC said the investigation will cover the "economic structure of the American automobile industry, economic performance of firms both domestic and foreign engaged in the manufacture and distribution of automobiles and the acts, practices and methods of competition of thos firms."

Included in the investigation, the announcement said, will be "pricing policy, scale economies, vertical integration, and automobile distribution practices."

The inquiry will enable the agency to "determine whether there is reason to believe that the FTC Act or other statutes enforced by the commission were or are being violated," the announcement said.

Hays keeps post as head of subcommittee

With one dissenter, Democrats on the House International Relations Committee voted Tuesday to keep Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, as chairman of the operations subcommittee. The voice vote, behind closed doors, rejected a proposal that Hays be stripped of one of his last remaining positions of power in an extension of a movement that forced him out of two key committee chairmanships. The House Ethics Committee and the Justice Dept. are still investigating Elizabeth Ray's charges that Hays hired her for a congressional staff job in which she served solely as his mistress.

Coal reform veto defeated by Senate

The Senate voted Tuesday to override President Ford's veto of legislation to reform leasing standards for federal coal lands, rejecting arguments it would hinder domestic coal production. The vote was 75 to 18 — 13 more than the required two-thirds margin. The House is scheduled to vote on the issue today. Ford vetoed the measure July 3, saying it would hamper production from the nation's coal reserves and limit the Interior Department's flexibility in administering the lands. The President said the legislation probably would raise prices for consumers and delay the nation's energy independence. Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., floor manager for override effort, said Ford was "ill-advised and misinformed" in vetoing the bill.

Law seeking reports of foreign bribes asked

President Ford Tuesday asked Congress for a law requiring American businessmen to report bribes and extortion in foreign dealings. He said the move would help deter "improper payments in international commerce by American corporations and their officers." Ford said the reports would go to the Internal Revenue Service, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Departments of State and Justice and — after a year's time — to the public. In a message to Congress, the President also said he wants the law to permit Washington to tell foreign governments about any bribery or extortion attempts.

3 tests indicate no sign of life on Mars

Viking scientists said Tuesday they have three healthy biological experiments "brewing their witches brew," on Mars, but none of them indicate signs of life. Operation of the third test was confirmed Tuesday. First results of the third experiment, called a pyrolytic release, indicated only that the test was going on with soil in the chamber. Dr. Norman Horowitz, a biology team member, said the first data indicates the Martian soil sample in the test chamber is in the range of Earth soils.

Texas oil exec slays two, injures two

A millionaire oil Fort Worth executive, embroiled in a bitter divorce case, went on a midnight shooting rampage in his mansion and slew his 12-year-old stepdaughter and a former college basketball star and wounded his wife and a 21-year-old man, police charged Tuesday. Cullen Davis, 40, president of Stratoflex Inc., was arrested a few hours after the slayings on his 143-acre estate. He was charged on two counts of murder and two counts of attempted murder.

Briton reported missing seen alive

One of two Britons missing and feared dead in Uganda has been seen alive by a close friend, diplomatic sources said Tuesday. But the fate of the other Englishman, reportedly arrested as a spy, was unknown. The sources said Jack Tulley, 65, a long-time resident of East Africa who disappeared a week ago, was seen by an unnamed friend in Kampala, Uganda's capital. Tulley reportedly was arrested when he asked at a police station about a friend Graham Clegg, 38, who was picked up July 27 in eastern Uganda on spying charges, according to diplomatic sources. Clegg's whereabouts were still unknown.

cideds into our column is still there," he said.

Morton said he had pledged himself not to disclose the names of the eight persons who were recommended to Ford as vice presidential possibilities by a group of Northeast state chairmen who met last weekend in Seal Harbor, Maine. He acknowledged one of them is a woman, but declined to disclose her name.

Anne Armstrong, ambassador to Great Britain, has often been mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate.

Morton said there has been some pressure—pressure with a little "p"—on Ford to announce his vice presidential choice before the convention. But he said he had no indication Ford intends to violate the "traditional" method for announcing his running mate.

He also said that Ford "certainly does not exclude" Vice President Nelson Rockefeller as a potential running mate.

91 evacuated from refugee camp

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—Red Cross medics crawled across an open field under mortar and machine gun fire Tuesday to evacuate 91 wounded men, women and children from the besieged Tal Zaatar Palestinian camp. One rescue doctor called the operation "our most difficult since World War II."

Sporadic machine gun and mortar fire raked a sports field separating the warring factions throughout the operation which took seven hours and nearly collapsed when Christian units refused to allow Red Cross doctors take in medicine, water and blankets to the remaining wounded.

One Christian soldier, who had argued among a minority of rightists to allow at least medicines be carried in to their surrounded Moslem foes, turned away in anger.

"This is the dirtiest war in the world," he said bitterly.

It was the first time in six tries Red Cross officials had managed to bring out any of the estimated 4,000 wounded in the refugee camp in southeast Beirut, under siege by Christian forces for 44 days.

"All in all this is probably our most difficult operation since World War II," one Red Cross doctor said sfterwards. "So just getting there makes it a success."

After the convoy of nine trucks, two ambulances and two scout cars reached Moslem hospitals in the Leftist-held sector with the injured, Palestinian guerrillas fired deafening bursts of gunfire into the air to celebrate the safe arrival of their wounded comrades.

An uneasy cease-fire held for most of the operation. But the first of many tense moments came when three mortars landed close to the camp and machine gun fire erupted as the first Red Cross scout car came to fetch the waiting trucks and ambulances at the start of the operation.

Sporadic explosions and machine-gun fire crackled across the lines for about two hours and a fierce battle developed on the fringes of Ras Dikwaneh, just north of the camp. Christian forces had charged that the Palestinians were taking advatnage of the truce in order to reinforce their positions.

Despite the fighting, the Red Cross went ahead with the operation.

Swine flu feared cause of deaths

no reports Tuesday that the disease had spread to anyone who did not attend the convention.

"I THINK THAT it's most probably a virus," Bachman said. "Hospitals have very good facilities for detecting bacteria, and we would have known by now if it was bacteria."

Fifty-one throat cultures, fecal and blood samples were under study at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Dr. J. Donald Millar, director of the center's bureau of state services, said specialists were taking "what may be described as a shotgun approach" in attempting to identify the agents involved.

Millar declined to speculate about the possibility that the illness was caused by swine flu. "No matter what this turns out to be, it emphasizes the fact that swine flu could be on us in short order," he said.

PENNSYLVANIA pathologist Dr. John A. Malcolm, who performed an autopsy on one of the first victims of the disease said it appeared to him the disease was "a virus spread by respiratory contact."

Malcolm said more cases of the virus could show up later in the week because it apparently requires at least a few days incubation period before its symptoms become apparent.

AT LEAST 115 cases of the mysterious disease were reported in Pennsylvania by late Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. John Hall, director of the Cook County health department, said officials are still planning for mass swine flu inoculations in a belief that the $135 million nationwide vaccination program proposed by President Ford and approved by Congress will get off the ground.

An educator with the Illinois Dept. of Public Health, Austin Hayes, said inoculations are expected to start in the state about Oct. 1.

"We are proceeding on information that vaccine will eventually be available," he said.

HAYES SAID the deaths in Pennsylvania "definitely will have an effect on solving the (insurance) problem" if it is shown that swine flu is responsible for the illness.

But the liability problem could actually become serious if the Pennsylvania deaths are attributed to swine flu, Hall said.

"If the virus is that deadly, the question arises of how strong does the antigen have to be? A powerful vaccine "could make the problem of liability worse because of the increased likelihood of adverse reaction," Hall said.

He said the liability deadlock "was a matter of high finance between the federal government and the drug firms. I don't know where it's going to end."

NORTHWEST suburban villages and townships have made plans for the vaccine program, originally planned to start in September but postponed last week to October.

Immunization clinics are tentatively scheduled at Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove high schools, the Randhurst Shopping Center and St. Peter Lutheran Church in Arlington Heights, Harper College, Sanborn School, Palatine and St. Marcelline Church, Schaumburg.

Approximately 200 nonprofessional and 40 professional volunteers will be needed at each clinic. High-pressure jet guns will be used to administer the vaccine.

Cook County has held workshops for volunteers and clinic managers and plans more training sessions, Hall said. Although the county has not had to spend much money on the program so far, "there has been a large investment of staff time," he said.

SYMPTOMS OF the illness reported in Pennsylvania include high fever, chills and headaches followed by a dry cough and muscle pain. Some of the most seriously ill developed fevers from 104 to 107 degrees and died in shock with extensive pneumonia.

No panic yet, local hospitals say

what's coming. You have to keep a bright outlook."

He has no doubts that "older persons who lived through the first epidemic" will want to get the flu vaccine if it ever becomes available. "Everyone should get the shot," he said.

Sixty-nine-year-old Ted Gleichman of Arlington Heights said he also will get an injection of the vaccine when it becomes available but said he is not so sure the general population would do the same.

"A lot of people only get concerned if it affects their own situation," he said. "Then when it does, they expect the world to turn upside down to help them."

2 bus kidnap suspects to plead innocent today

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (UPI) — Defense attorneys said Tuesday two young suspects will join their alleged accomplice and plead innocent in the kidnaping of 26 Chowchilla school children. Two of the suspects, Fred Newhall Woods and James Schoenfeld, both 24 and sons of prominent San Francisco area families, will enter their pleas today in Justice Court here, the attorneys said.

Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, 22, who also has pleaded innocent, will be brought with them to this central California farming community from jail in Alameda County east of San Francisco to ask reduction of $1 million bail.

Woods' attorney, Herbert Yanowitz, said he will ask at today's arraignment that Judge Howard C. Green keep in force a gag order on documents found by police on his client's 100-acre family estate until the trial if possible.

20% premium hike planned by Kemper

Kemper insurance companies of Long Grove plan to seek a raise in auto premiums in excess of 20 per cent this year after receiving a similar increase a year ago, a company spokesman said Tuesday. "We still have to keep pace with medical expenses and auto repair costs that are still rising," spokesman Carol Newman said. "When we get a rate increase, we don't feel its effects for a year so it's a constant game of atch-up." Kemper officials also said that its homeowners' insurance rates this year will increase between 15 and 20 per cent after 1975 increases of about 15 per cent. At the same time, Kemper officials reported record first-half profits of almost $11.7 million, or $2.08 a share on revenues of $306.7 million.

Grady last month ordered city officials to allow members of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Movement to march through the white neighborhood July 17 and to provide adequate police protection. During the march, 28 persons, including 15 police officers, were injured and 63 persons were arrested. Another march by the black organization into Marquette Park is scheduled Aug. 21.

Thompson cites Howlett for exchanging favors

Republican gubernatorial candidate James R. Thompson Tuesday accused his Democratic opponent, Michael J. Howlett, of promising to support changes in the workmen's compensation bill in return for a $3,000 contribution from downstate oil producers.

Thompson said at a Chicago news conference the secretary of state made the promise during a recent secret meeting in Olney in Richland County with oil producers.

He said Howlett told the oil producers that as governor he would allow them to drill for oil on state land and would also support changes in the workmen's compensation bill, which employers complain is now heavily weighted in favor of labor.

THOMPSON SAID Howlett, after meeting with the oil producers, returned to Chicago "and reassured the unions" he stood with them on the issue.

"To lobby for the union's bill in workmen's compensation last year and then to go down to Richland County and in a secret meeting take a campaign contribution and in return promise not only drilling for oil on state land, but to tell those people he would work for changes on workmen's compensation and never say it publicly . . . I think is a threat to the integrity of the political process in Illinois and the citizens of Illinois ought to know about it," Thompson said.

He declined to name the oil producers but said he learned of the meeting from them.

Howlett could not be reached immediately for comment.

Thompson also accused Howlett of taking varying positions on tax increases and gun control, depending on where in the state he was speaking.

HE CRITICIZED a statement Howlett made in Peoria Monday on Chicago schools, when Howlett said he does not favor a bill passed by the legislature this spring to decrease the penalty Chicago schools must pay for closing early this year.

Under the bill, Chicago's penalty would be reduced by $22 million. Gov. Daniel Walker has not yet indicated whether he will sign the measure.

Thompson called Howlett's position on the bill "one of the most cynical and callous and cold hearted acts of desperation in a political campaign."

"Mr. Howlett has come right out and proposed to punish the school children of Chicago to the tune of $22 million in an effort to pick up votes in downstate Illinois on a hate Chicago platform," he said.

He called it a "transparent attempt to set Chicago against downstate by opposing a bill which members of his party helped to pass."

Thompson said he thinks Walker should sign the measure.

Unpaid Walker campaign debt $200,000: aide

SPRINGFIELD, Ill (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker has paid off more than $250,000 in debts since the March primary but he still owes about $200,000, his aides said Tuesday.

Campaign disclosure statements filed with the state Board of Elections show Walker's debts from the campaign amounted to $464,419. Press Sec. Norton Kay said all but about $200,000 of that has been repaid.

The statements show the Daniel Walker for Governor Fund raised $1,128,521 between July 1, 1975, and June 30, 1976, but spent $1,134,775. Other Walker funds raised smaller amounts.

Most of Walker's debts consist of personal loans, many of them to individuals in Chicago.

THE STATEMENTS show that Sec. of State Michael Howlett, who defeated Walker in the Democratic primary, raised more money than the governor. Howlett got $1,734,436 in contributions and spent $1,673,511.

Howlett received major contributions from a number of labor groups, including the United Auto Workers in Illinois with $26,000 and the Illinois Medical Political Action Committee with $16,250.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson, meanwhile, raised nearly $955,000 and spent $910,188 from July 1, 1975, to June 30, 1976.

Thompson's largest contributor during that period was Ray Kroc, the head of the McDonald's fast-food restaurant chain, who gave $20,000. Thompson also received several hundred dollars from Jayne Carr, who married Thompson in June.

THOMPSON SAID Howlett, after meeting with the oil producers, returned to Chicago "and reassured the unions" he stood with them on the issue.

"To lobby for the union's bill in workmen's compensation last year and then to go down to Richland County and in a secret meeting take a campaign contribution and in return promise not only drilling for oil on state land, but to tell those people he would work for changes on workmen's compensation and never say it publicly . . . I think is a threat to the integrity of the political process in Illinois and the citizens of Illinois ought to know about it," Thompson said.

He declined to name the oil producers but said he learned of the meeting from them.

Howlett could not be reached immediately for comment.

Thompson also accused Howlett of taking varying positions on tax increases and gun control, depending on where in the state he was speaking.

HE CRITICIZED a statement Howlett made in Peoria Monday on Chicago schools, when Howlett said he does not favor a bill passed by the legislature this spring to decrease the penalty Chicago schools must pay for closing early this year.

Under the bill, Chicago's penalty would be reduced by $22 million. Gov. Daniel Walker has not yet indicated whether he will sign the measure.

Thompson called Howlett's position on the bill "one of the most cynical and callous and cold hearted acts of desperation in a political campaign."

"Mr. Howlett has come right out and proposed to punish the school children of Chicago to the tune of $22 million in an effort to pick up votes in downstate Illinois on a hate Chicago platform," he said.

He called it a "transparent attempt to set Chicago against downstate by opposing a bill which members of his party helped to pass."

Thompson said he thinks Walker should sign the measure.

Unpaid Walker campaign debt $200,000: aide

SPRINGFIELD, Ill (UPI) — Gov. Daniel Walker has paid off more than $250,000 in debts since the March primary but he still owes about $200,000, his aides said Tuesday.

Campaign disclosure statements filed with the state Board of Elections show Walker's debts from the campaign amounted to $464,419. Press Sec. Norton Kay said all but about $200,000 of that has been repaid.

The statements show the Daniel Walker for Governor Fund raised $1,128,521 between July 1, 1975, and June 30, 1976, but spent $1,134,775. Other Walker funds raised smaller amounts.

Most of Walker's debts consist of personal loans, many of them to individuals in Chicago.

THE STATEMENTS show that Sec. of State Michael Howlett, who defeated Walker in the Democratic primary, raised more money than the governor. Howlett got $1,734,436 in contributions and spent $1,673,511.

Howlett received major contributions from a number of labor groups, including the United Auto Workers in Illinois with $26,000 and the Illinois Medical Political Action Committee with $16,250.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Thompson, meanwhile, raised nearly $955,000 and spent $910,188 from July 1, 1975, to June 30, 1976.

Thompson's largest contributor during that period was Ray Kroc, the head of the McDonald's fast-food restaurant chain, who gave $20,000. Thompson also received several hundred dollars from Jayne Carr, who married Thompson in June.

Village holds half of land

Entire center site eludes library

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library failed in its bid to acquire title to the entire Cultural Center site for its expansion plans.

The Arlington Heights Village Board, by a 3 to 2 vote Monday, gave half the site on the 400 block of North Dunton Avenue to the library while retaining title to the remainder of the lot now being used for commuter parking.

The library will break ground in October or November for an addition that will approximately double the existing building's size. The expansion program calls for the addition to extend across Fremont Street, which will be closed, and to cover the north half of the Cultural Center site.

The library had proposed giving the village the title to the entire lot, but keeping the southerly portion as parking for commuter and overflow parking for library patrons.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Village Mgr. L.A Hanson recommended that the "southerly half (of the parking lot) should remain with the village." Hanson said the village is better equipped to police the lot and maintain it as a parking facility than the library.

Trustee Frank Palmatier backed the efforts of the library to obtain the entire block-square parcel.

"A legally enforceable commitment is what I have in mind," Palmatier said.

He said the land should be turned over or held in trust so that the library will have it available for future expansion needs.

"The library board needs that kind of assurance," he said. "It is fallacious for the library to spend this kind of money — $2.25 million (cost of the expansion) — without the assurance."

PALMATIER'S POSITION was supported by Trustee Madeline Schroeder, but Trustee Richard Durava said the deeding over of the land or holding for the library raised the question of whether the present board could legally bind a future board to the deal.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel concurred with Durava, saying "There's a serious question if we can bind a future board."

At last week's plan commission hearings about library expansion, Plan Comr. Leonard Perkins suggested there could have been better coordination between the library's building plans and the village's search for a parking garage site on the north side of the central business district.

PALMATIER QUESTIONED whether some of those opposing the land deal were doing so to save the land for a garage site.

If that was the basis for their opposition, Palmatier said those trustees "shouldn't hide behind legalities."

Village Pres. James T. Ryan reacted sharply and said his opposition to deeding the entire parcel was based solely on the legal questions raised by Siegel and Durava.

Trustee Alfred Barboro joined with Ryan and Durava in voting against the binding of the entire parcel to the library.

IN OTHER library-related business Ryan directed Hanson to investigate whether the library could be covered by the village charter to be exempted from fees to move telphone lines from beneath Fremont Street.

Illinois Bell Telphone Co. has asked for $5,000 to move the lines, while the library contends it should be exempted from the charges as part of the municipality.

Kenneth Bonder, village finance director, announced that the bonds to finance the library's expansion had been sold with an interest rate of 5.0471 per cent. The successful bidder was Smith Barney, Harris Upham and Co., Inc., of New York.

The bonds were sold at a better rate than the recently issued flood control bonds which were let at 5.09 per cent.

share your thoughts more freely," she said.

The youngsters said they wished they had as many opportunities to explore new areas during the regular school year.

"Sometimes school's a bore," said Joseph.

Mrs. Zeiser said Roycemore has heard from several parents who had youngsters in last year's program — the first year it was offered — who said the children found school more interesting.

She said as the number of teachers attending the program increases, the ideas presented during the summer five-week session should spread into the public schools.

Pastor to spend 2 years in Kenya

Arlington Heights Pastor James F. Ulrich Jr. will leave the area Aug. 26 for two years of missionary service in Kenya, East Africa.

Ulrich, 24, a life resident of Arlington Heights, said his duties in Kenya will include training of pastors, theological education of laymen and teaching in one of several Bible colleges operated in Kenya by the Africa Inland Church.

"I first thought of going overseas after I graduated from college," Ulrich said. "I was looking for places to teach, and there have been few opportunities in the state," he said.

There is a great shortage of pastors in Kenya and because English is spoken there, language will not be a barrier to his instruction, he said.

FOR THE PAST year, Ulrich has worked as an interim youth pastor at the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ulrich, at 131 S. Dwyer Ave.

A 1969 Arlington High School graduate, Ulrich earned his bachelor's degree at Brown University, Rhode Island. In March, he received a masters in the New Testament with high honors from Wheaton Graduate School, where he was president of the graduate student body and a teaching assistant.

As a sophomore at Arlington High School, he broke the Mid-Suburban discus record with a throw of 150 feet, eight and one half inches, a record that still stands today. He also was a star football player. Along with his athletic achievements, he was ranked second in the nation in a Santa Clara mathematics examination in 1968.

A commissioning service for Ulrich will be at 6 p.m. Aug. 15 in the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free Church, 1331 N. Belmont Ave. A reception will follow.

Sharon Sharp, 36, named Elk Grove Township clerk

The Elk Grove Township Board Monday night appointed Sharon Sharp, a local Republican party leader, as township clerk.

Mrs. Sharp, 36, of 1306 W. Cedar Ln., Arlington Heights, will begin the $5,000 per year job Sept. 1. It is her first public office.

She will replace George R. Busse who is resigning Aug. 31 because of increased business activities.

Township Supervisor Richard M. Hall said Mrs. Sharp will fill the remainder of Busse's term and then run for election April 1977. He cited her familiarity with township government and her willingness to accept the position as reasons for her selection.

Mrs. Sharp is Cook County Republican Chairwoman and Township Republican Committeewoman. She also has served on the township's mental health committee and has assisted with the township's quarterly newsletter.

In an interview with The Herald last February, Mrs. Sharp bluntly said of her party position: "Of course I intend to parley this job into an office."

Sharon Sharp

Busse, 47, of 117 S. School St., Mount Prospect, recently was elected chairman of the board for the Mount Prospect State Bank. He has served as township clerk since his appointment in January 1966, successfully running for election in 1969 and 1973.

Area couples still missing after flood

by TONI GINNETTI

Two Northwest suburban couples remain among those listed as missing in the wake of a devastating weekend flood in the Big Thompson Canyon near Loveland, Colo.

Authorities in Loveland Tuesday said 24-year-old Richard Parkin and his 21-year-old wife Candice of Hoffman Estates are still on the missing list. However, an Arlington Heights couple, Richard and Carol Zoppe, traveling with the Parkins were not listed.

"It could mean they are out of danger, or it could mean they had not been reported missing," a spokesman in Loveland said of the Zoppes.

Families of the missing couples have not heard from them since Saturday when they called relatives to say they would spend the night in Loveland before proceeding to California on a camping trip.

"WE HAVE NOT heard anything," Jack Parkin, father of Richard, said Tuesday. "Our only real salvation is if they did what they said they would do. They said they would stay in Loveland for the night and then go on. If they did that, there's no problem. But did they do that?"

Meanwhile, relatives of a Palatine family rescued from the flood said Tuesday they heard from the family late Monday.

The family, John Pistone, his wife Rae Ellen and their four daughters, were rescued by helicopter Sunday after being stranded on a mountain ledge to escape the flood waters.

Mrs. Pistone's sister, Joan Koebernick, said Tuesday the family contacted her. The family planned to stay with a family in Loveland.

"THEY HAD A VERY close call," Ms. Koebernick said. "They were driving down the highway and saw the water rising and all of a sudden the guard rail started breaking off. They turned around to start heading back in the other direction and just then the road in front of them broke away."

She said rising water forced the family to leave the car just before the remainder of the road washed away. "They ran up the mountain and spent the night on a ledge with 16 other people," she said. "They had one sleeping bag to cover them and it rained all night.

"The next day they started walking around to find more level ground and about noon they were picked up by a helicopter."

Ms. Koebernick said the Pistones' car was buried under the mud. She said the family planned to buy a used car to leave Loveland today and return home, probably arriving by Friday.

Meanwhile authorities in Loveland continued Tuesday to search for victims of flood. Volunteers helped man an evacuation center established in Loveland High School to provide temporary housing for flood victims.

Telephone news of flood victims offered by firm

LOVELAND, Colo. (UPI) — Authorities Tuesday said persons wishing news of relatives or friends possibly involved in the Big Thompson River flood may call an engineering firm operating two-way radios in the disaster area.

Officials said M&I Engineering Co. had two-way radio operators in Estes Park at the headwaters of the Big Thompson River and at nearby Ft. Collins, north of Loveland.

According to authorities, operators will stay by their radios until all survivors are rescued and victims are identified. They said the telephone number for the operators is 1-303-482-8249.

Parent open house planned by Harper

An open house for parents of new students at Harper College will be held Wednesday, Aug. 11, in Building A, on campus, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine. The open house is designed to acquaint parents with the Harper staff, programs and facilities.

The schedule will begin at 7 p.m. with a tour of the campus. A program at 8 p.m. will include a slide presentation and brief description of Harper; an introduction of different services; individual displays; and discussion with directors and staff.

Jimmy Carter: Already acts like a president

by STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although Jimmy Carter is an election and an inauguration away from occupying the White House — if he makes it at all — he is already acting very much like the president in his relations with Congress.

On at least three issues now before Congress, Carter has either taken a direct role on legislation or made his views so pronounced that they are being taken into consideration.

The three are the postcard voter registration bill, the B1 bomber and the so-called Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

The only evidence of direct interference by the Democratic presidential candidate is a telephone call he made to Speaker Carl Albert expressing hope that Congress would act on the voter registration measure.

As a result of that phone call, the House may act as early as next week on the bill which would allow voters to register by mail. Faced with substantial opposition, the bill has been in a Rules Committee limbo.

The Carter telephone call prompted Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, to complain that Carter was "pushing his peanuts before they're picked."

"I think it's rather presumptuous of the Democratic presidential nominee to be sending legislative messages to the Hill," Anderson said.

Carter's role on the B1 and Humphrey-Hawkins are less distinct. In fact, it may just be a case of a Democratic Congress responding to the known positions of the new presidential candidate.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted 15 to 14 last week to delay until next February — when Carter hopes to be in office — a decision on the production of the controversial bomber. Carter has on numerous occasions expressed hope that Congress would delay the decision until he becomes president.

But there is no evidence that Carter took a hand in the committee's decision. In fact, some believe that if the Georgian had personally taken some action, the vote to delay would have been even greater.

Similarly, proposed changes in the Humphrey-Hawkins bill may only be a response to Carter's objections of the original measure, rather than the result of any specific action by the Georgian.

House sponsors of the bill have revised the measure which not only makes the bill acceptable to Carter but also conforms more closely to the Democratic platform which, for the most part, Carter strategists virtually dictated.

The revised Humphrey-Hawkins bill would set a goal of reducing the national unemployment rate among persons 20 years or older to 3 per cent within four years.

This is in contrast with a 16-year floor in the House bill and an 18-year bottom in the Senate bill. By increasing the age factor, sponsors claim, there will be a need for fewer jobs although the unemployment goal for all over 16 would be 4 per cent.

Carter's willingness to take an active role in congressional affairs — such as on the postcard voter bill — and the apparent willingness of congressional Democrats to take the candidate's position into account before he is elected underscores the confidence on both sides that he will be elected.

And it demonstrates, once again, that Carter is already looking beyond the election to the formation of an administration.

The way we see it

Need RTA court decision

The Regional Transportation Authority and mass transit users in the six-county area find themselves in a lamentable situation.

The RTA board is blocked from distributing money to various local agencies which operate throughout the area. The RTA had hoped the Illinois Supreme Court could speedily resolve the question of whether they may disburse funds from a budget that was approved after the legal deadline for budget action had passed.

But the state high court has decided to stay with its summer vacation schedule, and in the meantime transit operators dependent on RTA funding are fearful that service will not continue. Many operations normally exist in a fragile financial state, but the possibility that some transit agencies will not receive any RTA money for more than a month makes a disruption of service seem likely.

A number of factors have contributed to the problem.

Some RTA board members have demonstrated more concern over helping the Chicago Transit Authority than the overall area, which precipitated the latest city-suburban fight.

The suburban members stuck to their guns and refused to act on the budget until they were able to reduce the power of Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

In the end the political squabbles which have beset the agency from its inception delayed the passage of the budget past June 30.

RTA board members must do whatever is possible to bring about a quick court decision on the case and go about the business of keeping operations like the North Suburban Mass Transit District and the Elgin bus service in operation.

RTA board member D. Daniel Baldino has the right idea in his call for the RTA to make emergency grants to suburban bus lines, while the court ruling is delayed.

Local operations must do everything possible to preserve whatever funds they have or can obtain from new sources on an emergency basis so they can continue operations until the court suit is resolved.

It can only be hoped that the political bickering and judicial sloth will not permanently damage mass transit services in the area and that everyone involved in the current RTA fiasco will have learned a valuable lesson.

Monoson indictment not Wheeling's

Circumstances surrounding the indictment of Wheeling Trustee Gilbert Monoson on charges of official misconduct, bribery and attempted bribery should not be confused with the federal investigation in the village three years ago.

It is unfortunate that these allegations against Monoson should occur just when the air was beginning to clear after the village's last scandal.

Wheeling officials, from all political parties, have worked hard in the past 18 months to make the village start taking pride in itself again. And as one official said when hearing of the indictment, "It comes as a stunning blow."

Monoson was a member of the reform ticket that started to clean up Wheeling, which makes the indictment that much more of a blow.

However, it shoud be noted the indictment is against one man, and not part of an ongoing investigation. There is no evidence of other official involvement.

Monoson has resigned as trustee, and village trustees should seek a new board member they know will work with them to recover from this setback and continue the reform work of the last 18 months.

Dist. 26 resident upset with referendum plans

I am a resident of River Trails School Dist. 26, and I was bitterly disappointed when a citizens' committee from our district recommended raising class sizes and closing a school as opposed to holding a tax referendum to increase school revenue.

This disappointment has turned into utter dismay as I learn of a citizens' committee in Dist. 21, which is just north of Dist. 26, recommending to their board that a tax referendum be initiated in order to help relieve the district of its financial plight.

The spokesperson for the committee said, ". . . the committee was convinced the quality of education in the district would be degraded without additional money." Contained in the report was this intriguing sentence, "Unless we are prepared to give up programs and raise class sizes considerably, we need more money for the district."

These should certainly be refreshing ideas to Dist. 26 residents who have heard our board attempt to explain how they are maintaining quality education by increasing class sizes and closing a school. I, for one, would like to know what makes Dist. 21 unique from Dist. 26 in that Dist. 21 felt a tax referendum was valid, while Dist. 26 sloughed off the idea of a tax referendum as not worth the effort of pursuing.

It all boils down to this, Dist. 26 board members. Why weren't the people given a chance like they are being afforded in Dist. 21?

Record straight on petitions

I would like to make something clear with regard to an article on the new library that appeared in your newspaper.

I circulated a petition to be signed by school age children in Mount Prospect. It was my understanding that the purpose of the petition was to keep the library open on Saturdays and evenings.

The petition does state that we need adequate funds but in no way did this imply that there was not adequate funds to operate the library.

At the last village board meeting I expressed the feelings of these children's parents. They felt that the library board could cut the hours in the mornings from 8 a.m. to 12 noon rather than evenings or Saturdays thus save operating costs. None of the parents I spoke with told me that they felt that the library board should be given more money.

This was my reason for circulating the petition and I wanted to set the record straight.

Hopes for abortion change

There seems to be in the media a conspiracy of silence on the fact that not only Catholics but a majority of other Christians as well as a large percentage of non-Christians are concerned about legalized abortion. In fairness to the issue it is not exclusively the concern of any one group, but rather the concern of all who feel that the right to life, guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution, has been infringed upon by decisions of our Supreme Court, and whether we should stand idly by without protest. Someone wisely said that all that evil needs to triumph is that good men do nothing. There are many, many good people in this land, Christians and non-Christians, church-goers and non-church-goers; and they are not going to do nothing. The denial of the right to life to unborn children is a serious erosion of what America stands for in our own minds and in the eyes of the world. Efforts are made to camouflage the issue by arguing about when a human fetus becomes a human being. This is not a question for judges or politicians or doctors or theologians. It rightly belongs to biologists, the experts on life. How do they answer? They tell us that human life doesn't start at all. It started once, eons ago. Now it is handed down. The human fetus is human life from the moment of conception — it can't be anything else but human life.

Locally the members of our community are confronted with the recent decision of the board of Northwest Community Hospital to provide abortions on demand. I firmly believe that, given a chance to express itself, this community will reject that decision and insist that the hospital reflect the convictions and feelings and rights of the community to which it owes its existence. A hospital should be a life-preserving institution, not a life-taking one. And I sincerely hope we'll soon have an amendment to our constitution that will spell out the right to life of all Americans, born and unborn.

Sprinkling ban good for lawn

Recently the Mt. Prospect Village Board enacted an ordinance prohibiting sprinkling of lawns on three days per week. It may be bad news to some lawn lovers, but it is good news to lawns. It would be still better news to lawns if the ordinance limited the sprinkling to only one day per week. For according to the experts, too frequent sprinkling of a lawn does more harm than good to the grass.

To my knowledge there are only a few residents who sprinkle their lawns every day. Those who do are committing three common wrongs:

- They are watering too light.
- They are hindering the grass from developing a deep root system.
- They are wasting community's water.

Watering, to do grass the most good, should soak the ground to four inches deep. This will cause the grass roots to grow down in search for moisture and food, which will result in a deep root system. A deep-rooted lawn will survive summer droughts remarkably well, provided other lawn maintenance programs are being carried out; proper fertilizing and mowing and effective measures of controlling weeds, insect pests and diseases.

Well maintained lawns seldom need watering in this section of the country; anyway not everyday nor four times a week. Even if the grass turns brown in midsummer, no damage is done, for the first good rain will bring it back to green growth. If watering is needed, soak the lawn thoroughly and then leave it alone for a week or ten days.

Frequent sprinkling, as a rule, has to be light or shallow-soaking. If it were heavy, it would harm the lawn by oversaturation. It is the worst treatment you can give your lawn, especially if hosed on by hand. It is also wasting of water.

Lightly sprinkled lawn is a shallow-rooted lawn. Under this system of watering only a thin layer of soil is soaked. In dry weather the roots, searching for moisture, will confine their development to the surface layer of the soil. In a dry weather, such a root system is mercilessly exposed to hot sun. During a drought the moisture is sucked out almost as fast as it is applied. The surface layer of the soil is hardened by drying and will crack, thus breaking the rootlets off the mother-roots — the chief feeders of moisture and food to the grass. The lawn is in danger of being dry-killed. It will take more than one good rain to bring this lawn back to good healthy growth. For it would take some time for new rootlets to develop.

It is worth remembering that a lawn cannot thrive on water alone. Other things are needed to make it grow and stay green. It is up to a homeowner to supply those needs.

Jimmy Carter: Already acts like a president

by STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although Jimmy Carter is an election and an inauguration away from occupying the White House — if he makes it at all — he is already acting very much like the president in his relations with Congress.

On at least three issues now before Congress, Carter has either taken a direct role on legislation or made his views so pronounced that they are being taken into consideration.

The three are the postcard voter registration bill, the B1 bomber and the so-called Humphrey-Hawkins full employment bill.

The only evidence of direct interference by the Democratic presidential candidate is a telephone call he made to Speaker Carl Albert expressing hope that Congress would act on the voter registration measure.

As a result of that phone call, the House may act as early as next week on the bill which would allow voters to register by mail. Faced with substantial opposition, the bill has been in a Rules Committee limbo.

The Carter telephone call prompted Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, to complain that Carter was "pushing his peanuts before they're picked."

"I think it's rather presumptuous of the Democratic presidential nominee to be sending legislative messages to the Hill," Anderson said.

Carter's role on the B1 and Humphrey-Hawkins are less distinct. In fact, it may just be a case of a Democratic Congress responding to the known positions of the new presidential candidate.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted 15 to 14 last week to delay until next February — when Carter hopes to be in office — a decision on the production of the controversial bomber. Carter has on numerous occasions expressed hope that Congress would delay the decision until he becomes president.

But there is no evidence that Carter took a hand in the committee's decision. In fact, some believe that if the Georgian had personally taken some action, the vote to delay would have been even greater.

Similarly, proposed changes in the Humphrey-Hawkins bill may only be a response to Carter's objections of the original measure, rather than the result of any specific action by the Georgian.

House sponsors of the bill have revised the measure which not only makes the bill acceptable to Carter but also conforms more closely to the Democratic platform which, for the most part, Carter strategists virtually dictated.

The revised Humphrey-Hawkins bill would set a goal of reducing the national unemployment rate among persons 20 years or older to 3 per cent within four years.

This is in contrast with a 16-year floor in the House bill and an 18-year bottom in the Senate bill. By increasing the age factor, sponsors claim, there will be a need for fewer jobs although the unemployment goal for all over 16 would be 4 per cent.

Carter's willingness to take an active role in congressional affairs — such as on the postcard voter bill — and the apparent willingness of congressional Democrats to take the candidate's position into account before he is elected underscores the confidence on both sides that he will be elected.

And it demonstrates, once again, that Carter is already looking beyond the election to the formation of an administration.

The way we see it

Need RTA court decision

The Regional Transportation Authority and mass transit users in the six-county area find themselves in a lamentable situation.

The RTA board is blocked from distributing money to various local agencies which operate throughout the area. The RTA had hoped the Illinois Supreme Court could speedily resolve the question of whether they may disburse funds from a budget that was approved after the legal deadline for budget action had passed.

But the state high court has decided to stay with its summer vacation schedule, and in the meantime transit operators dependent on RTA funding are fearful that service will not continue. Many operations normally exist in a fragile financial state, but the possibility that some transit agencies will not receive any RTA money for more than a month makes a disruption of service seem likely.

A number of factors have contributed to the problem.

Some RTA board members have demonstrated more concern over helping the Chicago Transit Authority than the overall area, which precipitated the latest city-suburban fight.

The suburban members stuck to their guns and refused to act on the budget until they were able to reduce the power of Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

In the end the political squabbles which have beset the agency from its inception delayed the passage of the budget past June 30.

RTA board members must do whatever is possible to bring about a quick court decision on the case and go about the business of keeping operations like the North Suburban Mass Transit District and the Elgin bus service in operation.

RTA board member D. Daniel Baldino has the right idea in his call for the RTA to make emergency grants to suburban bus lines, while the court ruling is delayed.

Local operations must do everything possible to preserve whatever funds they have or can obtain from new sources on an emergency basis so they can continue operations until the court suit is resolved.

It can only be hoped that the political bickering and judicial sloth will not permanently damage mass transit services in the area and that everyone involved in the current RTA fiasco will have learned a valuable lesson.

CLU is quality tag in insurance

by ROBERT S. ROSEFSKY

Dear Mr. Rosefsky: I've been thinking about buying some life insurance and have talked to a number of agents while looking for one that seems to be particularly helpful and interested in my needs. A lot of them seem to be hit-and-run types but some are more professional.

A few of them have told me that they are Chartered Life Underwriters. In your opinion, does this fact qualify them as better than an agent without that credential? Do they offer any better products? Does it make more sense to deal with one of these fellows, or doesn't it make any difference so long as the personalities and attitudes of the parties match?

A Chartered Life Underwriter, or CLU, is an insurance agent who has been through a rigorous course of instruction to equip him to serve his public better and make his living.

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Only a small percentage of all agents are CLUs. The educational requirements may scare off many. They include five separate courses on such matters as economics, taxes, estate planning and conservation, corporate law, contract law, pensions and profit-sharing plans, accounting and the technical aspects of life insurance itself.

Each course requires about 60 hours of classroom work, plus abundant outside homework. On completing the courses, each agent has to pass a four-hour written exam on each of the subjects. If all are passed, he must be recommended by his peers. If he is, he becomes a Chartered Life Underwriter and must subscribe to the following pledge:

"IN ALL MY relations with clients I agree to observe the following rule of professional conduct: I shall, in the light of all of the circumstances surrounding my client, which I shall make every conscientous effort to ascertain and to understand, give him that service which, had I been in the same circumstances, I would have applied to myself."

A CLU doesn't have any product or secret policies to offer you that any other agent may have. But he has the education that might enable him to determine your needs better and find the right policy to satisfy those needs.

Certainly, there are many fine agents who don't have the CLU designation. And there are, I'm sure, CLUs whose ethics may not be as pristine as the society would like them to be.

But in dealing with a CLU you are working with an individual who has invested hundreds of hours of his own time to become more of an expert in his field. That fact alone would cause me to lean in favor of doing business with a CLU.

Remember that no insurance agent, CLU or not, can make a living unless he sells policies. The amount of time he can give to counseling with you is limited. But the quality of counseling is important, perhaps more so than the amount of time given it. And that may well be where the CLU has the edge.

AT&T leads trade

Dow Jones climbs 8.07 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — AT&T, aided by a government official's opinion that big doesn't always mean bad, led a New York Stock Exchange rally Tuesday to its best gain in three weeks in increased trading.

The bluest of blue-chip stocks topped the active list, gaining a point to a 1976 high of 58¾ on 258,200 shares traded following news late Monday a Federal Communications Commission examiner, contrary to views of other FCC staffers, didn't think the utility giant should be broken up.

It was uncertain how much influence the examiner's report would have on the Justice Department's antitrust suit against AT&T.

But the report cheered Wall Street and pushed the Dow Jones industrial average 8.07 points higher to 990.33, the biggest gain since the July 12 gain of 8.10.

THE RALLY wasn't confined to the blue-chips. The NYSE common stock index rose 0.48 to 55.61 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 29 cents. Advances routed declines, 995 to 437, in the 1,823 issues traded.

Volume rose to 18,500,000 shares from 13,870,000 traded Monday, the third slowest session of the year. This was the heaviest turnover since 18,809,140 shares changed hands July 20.

(Standard & Poor's new 500-stock index, which incudes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.95 to 104.14.)

Chrysler, the second most active issue, gained 3/8 to 22¼ with investors anticipating the No. 3 automaker would resume dividend payments soon. General Motors climbed 1-3/8 to 69½ and Ford added ¼ to 57-5/8.

NATIONAL SEMICONDUCTOR was the third most active issue, up 2-5/8 to 36. The stock lost more than 10 points recently following the firm's revelation problems with digital watch parts will hurt earnings.

Boeing, the fifth most active, climbed 2-1/8 points to 42¼ following news American Airlines had made a $67-million order for six airplanes.

American Airlines gained ½ to 15½.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by five cents. Volume totaled 1,690,000 shares versus 1,800,000 shares Monday.

Energy output on the rise, despite vast hike in price

by R. M. SORGE

World energy production has tripled in the past 25 years and still is on the increase despite a slowdown reflecting the fourfold oil price increase since 1974.

The lion's share of this energy is being consumed by the industrial countries, led by the United States, the Soviet Union, China and Japan.

This picture of the global energy situation was revealed this month in some 900 pages of statistics compiled by the United Nations in a report entitled "World Energy Supplies 1950-1974."

The United States, with only 5 per cent of the world's population, used 30 per cent of this energy in 1974. (The figure was 45 per cent in the post World War II boom era of 1950.) Despite the temporary shortage, each American accounted for nine times as much gasoline as the world per capita average.

DURING THE 25 year period, petroleum largely replaced coal as the primary source of energy, but in North Korea, China, Poland, South Africa, North Vietnam, Czechoslovakia, India, East Germany, Southern Rhodesia and Mongolia, solid fuels retained their leading position.

The United States remained the largest coal consumer using 19.8 per cent of the total world production, followed by the Soviet Union, China, Poland, Britain, West Germany, Japan and India.

In total, the global share of coal is an energy producer dropped from 61.5 per cent in 1950 to 31.7 per cent in 1974, being replaced by liquid petroleum and natural gas. Consumption of petroleum and primary electricity increased five times and that of natural gas seven times during that period.

The world's largest oil importer in 1974 was Japan with 15.6 per cent of the global share, followed by the United States, France, Italy, Britain and West Germany.

Coal worker strike spreads in state

The walkout by United Mine Workers spread in Illinois Tuesday, closing at least 29 of the state's 54 mines and idling almost 70 per cent of the state's 13,000 miners. "The thing is growing," said Michael Bunton of DuQuoin, a board member of UMW District 12, which covers all of Illinois. "I look for all the mines to be down tomorrow (Wednesday). But it all depends on what happens in West Virginia. The president of the national coal operators association refused Tuesday to meet with leaders of striking coal miners.

Air bags effect disputed

Proposed use of air bags as mandatory equipment in cars drew reaction ranging from claims they could save thousands of lives to warnings of a consumer revolt in hearings Tuesday before Transportation Sec. William T. Coleman. Coleman called the one-day hearing because he must rule on whether to require the device. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., an opponent of the air bags which inflate automatically on impact, said a consumer revolt could result if the federal government requires their use. On the other hand, the Allstate Insurance Co., Northbrook, and Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., argued that the system, substituted for harness-type seat belts, could save thousands of lives a year.

Gifts to inspectors discovered

Federal investigators have found evidence of gratuities to government-licensed grain inspectors in seven states and possible new cases of short-weight grain shipments in nine states, it was learned Tuesday. A Justice Dept. official, in a letter to Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, reported that "documentary evidence of gratuities to (licensed) inspectors has been developed" involving "hundreds of gratuities . . . amounting to thousands of dollars."

Social Security book available

A new publication entitled "Social Security for Young Families" is available from the Arlington Heights Social Security office. Norman Jerome, office manager, said the booklet has information on benefits for young people, how protection is earned and benefits which can be paid. Benefits for a worker's grandchildren are offered if the natural parents are dead or disabled and other conditions are met, the publication explains. The free booklet can be obtained at the office, 120 W. Eastman.

CLU is quality tag in insurance

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

by ROBERT S. ROSEFSKY

Dear Mr. Rosefsky: I've been thinking about buying some life insurance and have talked to a number of agents while looking for one that seems to be particularly helpful and interested in my needs. A lot of them seem to be hit-and-run types but some are more professional.

A few of them have told me that they are Chartered Life Underwriters. In your opinion, does this fact qualify them as better than an agent without that credential? Do they offer any better products? Does it make more sense to deal with one of these fellows, or doesn't it make any difference so long as the personalities and attitudes of the parties match?

A Chartered Life Underwriter, or CLU, is an insurance agent who has been through a rigorous course of instruction to equip him to serve his public better and make his living.

Only a small percentage of all agents are CLUs. The educational requirements may scare off many. They include five separate courses on such matters as economics, taxes, estate planning and conservation, corporate law, contract law, pensions and profit-sharing plans, accounting and the technical aspects of life insurance itself.

Each course requires about 60 hours of classroom work, plus abundant outside homework. On completing the courses, each agent has to pass a four-hour written exam on each of the subjects. If all are passed, he must be recommended by his peers. If he is, he becomes a Chartered Life Underwriter and must subscribe to the following pledge:

"IN ALL MY relations with clients I agree to observe the following rule of professional conduct: I shall, in the light of all of the circumstances surrounding my client, which I shall make every conscientous effort to ascertain and to understand, give him that service which, had I been in the same circumstances, I would have applied to myself."

A CLU doesn't have any product or secret policies to offer you that any other agent may have. But he has the education that might enable him to determine your needs better and find the right policy to satisfy those needs.

Certainly, there are many fine agents who don't have the CLU designation. And there are, I'm sure, CLUs whose ethics may not be as pristine as the society would like them to be.

But in dealing with a CLU you are working with an individual who has invested hundreds of hours of his own time to become more of an expert in his field. That fact alone would cause me to lean in favor of doing business with a CLU.

Remember that no insurance agent, CLU or not, can make a living unless he sells policies. The amount of time he can give to counseling with you is limited. But the quality of counseling is important, perhaps more so than the amount of time given it. And that may well be where the CLU has the edge.

AT&T leads trade

Dow Jones climbs 8.07 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — AT&T, aided by a government official's opinion that big doesn't always mean bad, led a New York Stock Exchange rally Tuesday to its best gain in three weeks in increased trading.

The bluest of blue-chip stocks topped the active list, gaining a point to a 1976 high of 58¾ on 258,200 shares traded following news late Monday a Federal Communications Commission examiner, contrary to views of other FCC staffers, didn't think the utility giant should be broken up.

It was uncertain how much influence the examiner's report would have on the Justice Department's antitrust suit against AT&T.

But the report cheered Wall Street and pushed the Dow Jones industrial average 8.07 points higher to 990.33, the biggest gain since the July 12 gain of 8.10.

THE RALLY wasn't confined to the blue-chips. The NYSE common stock index rose 0.48 to 55.61 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 29 cents. Advances routed declines, 995 to 437, in the 1,823 issues traded.

Volume rose to 18,500,000 shares from 13,870,000 traded Monday, the third slowest session of the year. This was the heaviest turnover since 18,809,140 shares changed hands July 20.

(Standard & Poor's new 500-stock index, which incudes some over-the-counter stocks, gained 0.95 to 104.14.)

Chrysler, the second most active issue, gained 3/8 to 22¼ with investors anticipating the No. 3 automaker would resume dividend payments soon. General Motors climbed 1-3/8 to 69½ and Ford added ¼ to 57-5/8.

NATIONAL SEMICONDUCTOR was the third most active issue, up 2-5/8 to 36. The stock lost more than 10 points recently following the firm's revelation problems with digital watch parts will hurt earnings.

Boeing, the fifth most active, climbed 2-1/8 points to 42¼ following news American Airlines had made a $67-million order for six airplanes.

American Airlines gained ½ to 15½.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by five cents. Volume totaled 1,690,000 shares versus 1,800,000 shares Monday.

Coal worker strike spreads in state

The walkout by United Mine Workers spread in Illinois Tuesday, closing at least 29 of the state's 54 mines and idling almost 70 per cent of the state's 13,000 miners. "The thing is growing," said Michael Bunton of DuQuoin, a board member of UMW District 12, which covers all of Illinois. "I look for all the mines to be down tomorrow (Wednesday). But it all depends on what happens in West Virginia. The president of the national coal operators association refused Tuesday to meet with leaders of striking coal miners.

Air bags effect disputed

Proposed use of air bags as mandatory equipment in cars drew reaction ranging from claims they could save thousands of lives to warnings of a consumer revolt in hearings Tuesday before Transportation Sec. William T. Coleman. Coleman called the one-day hearing because he must rule on whether to require the device. Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., an opponent of the air bags which inflate automatically on impact, said a consumer revolt could result if the federal government requires their use. On the other hand, the Allstate Insurance Co., Northbrook, and Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., argued that the system, substituted for harness-type seat belts, could save thousands of lives a year.

Gifts to inspectors discovered

Federal investigators have found evidence of gratuities to government-licensed grain inspectors in seven states and possible new cases of short-weight grain shipments in nine states, it was learned Tuesday. A Justice Dept. official, in a letter to Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, reported that "documentary evidence of gratuities to (licensed) inspectors has been developed" involving "hundreds of gratuities . . . amounting to thousands of dollars."

Social Security book available

A new publication entitled "Social Security for Young Families" is available from the Arlington Heights Social Security office. Norman Jerome, office manager, said the booklet has information on benefits for young people, how protection is earned and benefits which can be paid. Benefits for a worker's grandchildren are offered if the natural parents are dead or disabled and other conditions are met, the publication explains. The free booklet can be obtained at the office, 120 W. Eastman.

Energy output on the rise, despite vast hike in price

by R. M. SORGE

World energy production has tripled in the past 25 years and still is on the increase despite a slowdown reflecting the fourfold oil price increase since 1974.

The lion's share of this energy is being consumed by the industrial countries, led by the United States, the Soviet Union, China and Japan.

This picture of the global energy situation was revealed this month in some 900 pages of statistics compiled by the United Nations in a report entitled "World Energy Supplies 1950-1974."

The United States, with only 5 per cent of the world's population, used 30 per cent of this energy in 1974. (The figure was 45 per cent in the post World War II boom era of 1950.) Despite the temporary shortage, each American accounted for nine times as much gasoline as the world per capita average.

DURING THE 25 year period, petroleum largely replaced coal as the primary source of energy, but in North Korea, China, Poland, South Africa, North Vietnam, Czechoslovakia, India, East Germany, Southern Rhodesia and Mongolia, solid fuels retained their leading position.

The United States remained the largest coal consumer using 19.8 per cent of the total world production, followed by the Soviet Union, China, Poland, Britain, West Germany, Japan and India.

In total, the global share of coal is an energy producer dropped from 61.5 per cent in 1950 to 31.7 per cent in 1974, being replaced by liquid petroleum and natural gas. Consumption of petroleum and primary electricity increased five times and that of natural gas seven times during that period.

The world's largest oil importer in 1974 was Japan with 15.6 per cent of the global share, followed by the United States, France, Italy, Britain and West Germany.

Concern for the heart will move to the arms and legs Sunday when swimmers take to the water in 65 different pools throughout suburban Chicago to swim laps for the Chicago Heart Assn. and its programs.

Sponsored by the Suburban Parks and Recreation Assn., "Swim for Heart" will raise funds based on the number of laps each swimmer completes.

At Palatine's Birchwood Park Tuesday, Northwest suburban youths who will particpate in the swim-a-thon Sunday swam a practice lap with WBBM-Channel 2 anchorman Bill Kurtis, honorary state director for the heart association. Those interested in swimming should contact their local park districts to find a nearby participating pool.

Yankee ingenuity turns old patents into memorabilia

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Antisnoring devices, rocking bath tubs and ventilated coffins are things that never quite made it in the American marketplace.

But, such contraptions were patented and recognized products of man's ingenuity dating back to the turn of the century.

In peeling, yellowed volumes of the nation's patent archives, thousonds of other bizarre as well as practical inventions can be found — all the result of an impulsive need to create bigger and better things, and maybe, to become rich and famous by doing it.

There are 860 volumes of the patents issued between 1872 and 1912 that have become the possession of Armin Engelhardt, owner of Authentic American Antiques, Elk Grove Village.

Engelhardt plans to take the innovations that did — and even didn't — succeed in their own times and give them new life in the modern era.

TO DO THAT, he is hunting rusty tools, kitchen utensils, bicycles, baby carriages and all sorts of weird contraptions in small-town antique shops and estate auctions.

The items he is looking for are the authentic ones, the ones that have the patent date and number stamped into them.

Engelhardt matches the original product with the written specification and technical drawing that are part of the patent issued.

Then he mounts the invention and patent in an old-fashioned, wood frame and sells the wall hanging for anywhere from $50 to several hundred dollars, depending on the item.

Engelhardt admits it's commercializing off the commercialized. But, with a strong revival of the American past, the novelty of his offering "will go over big," he says.

Some of the old-time patents, although ridiculously complex, "seem very practical in application," Engelhardt said. He may take some time to improvise on a few to come up with some new inventions of his own.

"Most people don't understand what has gone on before us. They don't realize that very few of the things we do or can come up with today are actually new," Engelhardt said.

"THE LATE 1800s and the early 1900s were a wonderfully productive time in our history. It was a time when all the major inventions came about — the car, the bicycle, the airplane and electric light bulb, the movie projector and the phonograph," he said.

"The fascinating thing about it was they didn't have the tools, the materials or the production abilities that we have today. And they still were able to come up with highly technical highly complex devices," said Engelhardt, the owner of the Engelhardt Gear Co., just down the street from his month-old antique business at 2450 American Ln.

He's been interested in gears, mechanical workings and intricacies since he was a child growing up in Chicago, Engelhardt said.

And the patent records he owns are filled with them all.

There's a farm plow with a built-in cannon for instant protection against attacks. There's a dinner-table magnifying glass for picky chicken eaters. How about an automatic saluting device that fits under a man's top hat?

THERE ARE sketches of flying apparatus, webbed with strings and straps, that never quite got off the ground. There are versions of buggy washers, bustles, fish scalers, coffee mills, machine guns, bicycles, respirators, locomotives and horse-racing record keepers.

Anything imaginable is somewhere in those volumes, which otherwise can be found only in large libraries and the national archives in Washington, D.C.

Engelhardt bought the volumes when they were sold recently by Idaho. Complete copies of newly issued patents no longer are published in the same detail, although records continue to be kept in the national capital, he said.

But, a century or so ago, instant reference to new patents was important. Communications and transportation were so crude that two persons in extreme ends of the country could be inventing the same things at the same time and never know it, he said.

So, most inventions from back then were patented — everything from a ladle to a waffle iron.

Today's products are just improvements on the past, Engelhardt said, and the patent records are a goldmine for the future.

Eucharist Congress theme is freedom

Love called best injustice cure

GEORGE CARDINAL FLAHIFF of Canada gives the Mass of Anointed to handicapped people at an Eucharistic celebration at JFK Stadium in Philadelphia. The 41st Eucharistic Congress is being held there this week.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Speakers at a symposium on "The Hunger for Freedom and Justice" told the 41st International Eucharistic Congress Tuesday that love, not nationalism, must be the motive for Catholics to deal with injustice in the world.

Archbishop Giovanni Benelli, of the Vatican's Secretariat of State of the Holy See, said the Church's role of being "the conscience of humanity" made it important for Catholics to help those without freedom and justice.

"This is not a cry for nationalism and revolution, but an indispensable requirement to help man obtain his ends," he said. "There truly exists a connection between the love of God and for your neighbor and justice."

TUESDAY'S SYMPOSIUM was in keeping with the theme of the Congress — "The Eucharist and the Hungers of the Human Family." Catholics believe Jesus Christ changed bread and wine into the Eucharist, his body and blood, at the Last Supper the night before he died.

DOM HELDER Camara, archbishop of Olinda-Recife in Brazil, said the "motive and inspiration" in working to bring justice to those who don't have it "must be love."

"Without love, you create a monstrosity," he told a crowd of about 10,000 persons which included former vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver and his wife, Eunice. "Freedom is something that must not be turned into anger and slavery. Freedom and love do not conflict."

Both speakers told of the importance of the teachings of Christ in counseling the oppressed. which Archbishop Benelli classified as those suffering from "inequality of opportunity and distribution of wealth."

"THE MESSAGE of Christ must not be delivered in segments," said Archbishop Benelli, considered one of Pope Paul's closest advisers on church and world matters. "Either it is complete or it is betrayed. It is either applied (properly) or not at all."

"This (the fight for justice) is not meant to create a new political party, not to create a new religious sect, but for all Christians to work together," said Archbishop Camara, who was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize in 1970.

The diminutive Brazilian priest whose speech was interrupted more than 20 times by applause, also spoke in more political terms, warning of the dangers of Communism "trying to infiltrate our work in the poorer countries."

Eucharist Congress theme is freedom

Love called best injustice cure

GEORGE CARDINAL FLAHIFF of Canada gives the Mass of Anointed to handicapped people at an Eucharistic celebration at JFK Stadium in Philadelphia. The 41st Eucharistic Congress is being held there this week.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Speakers at a symposium on "The Hunger for Freedom and Justice" told the 41st International Eucharistic Congress Tuesday that love, not nationalism, must be the motive for Catholics to deal with injustice in the world.

Archbishop Giovanni Benelli, of the Vatican's Secretariat of State of the Holy See, said the Church's role of being "the conscience of humanity" made it important for Catholics to help those without freedom and justice.

Meaningful work key to productive employes

Meaningful work is the key to productive employes, said a recent report by Dartnell Institute of Business Research, Chicago.

"Despite post-recession cries for full productivity as the answer to more profitability, many managers are content to use the tried but not true method of goading employes to increase production," the report said. The information was compiled by Universal Training Systems Co., Wilmette.

Managers use the "carrot" in the form of a merit review program which promises raises and other rewards. They also use the "stick" in the form of appraisal programs designed to keep track of major and minor employe sins, the report said.

"How many companies really take steps to tap the full range of talents and skills that exist within their employes? How many people are asked or even permitted to say everything they have on their minds about their jobs?" the report said. The report suggests constant analysis of jobs and people doing them and steps which can be taken to make work worth doing. The report is entitled, "How to review and evaluate performance."

Ask Andy

Electric pacemaker helps heart

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Tim Luchanski, 11, of Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada, for his question:

HOW DOES A HEART PACEMAKER WORK?

You wouldn't think that an 88-year-old man and a 20-month-old girl could have anything in common, but they do. Both have heart disorders, and not too long ago they both had a miraculous device implanted that controls their heart rate — a pacemaker.

The heart pacemaker is a very tiny machine that controls the heart rate by sending out regular electrical impulses. It has meant new life for some 90,000 American cardiac patients, and many thousands more throughout Canada and the world.

Basically, there are two types of pacemakers in use today — the battery pacemaker and the nuclear pacemaker. Both perform the same vital function — that of controling the heart rate. The battery type is considerably less expensive and requires a trip to the hospital for surgery about every two years for the batteries to be changed.

The nuclear pacemaker, first implanted in American patients in 1973, uses no batteries. Instead, it contains 400 milligrams of the radioactive isotope, plutonium 238. As it decays, the plutonium generates heat, which is converted to electrical power for the pacemaker. The current is carried directly to the heart muscle by two electrode wires. The nuclear pacemaker, weighing about four ounces, has a life span of at least 10 years.

BOTH TYPES of pacemakers are used only in persons suffering from various forms of cardiac defects in which normal nerve impulses fail to reach the heart muscle. One condition, which claims at least 30,000 new victims in the United States alone each year, is known as "heart block" or Adams-Stokes syndrome. This ailment involved damage to the delicate impulse-transmitting fibers which carry the natural rhythmic, pulsing signals to the heart muscle. When such damage happens, the heart simply may slow down, or it occasionally may pause in its beat for a few seconds at a time, or it may stop beating entirely.

Incredibly, scientists were aware of the fantastic possibilities of pacemaking machines a full century ago, and the first electrical pacing of the heart was done in 1820. But it was not until the 1950s that small, battery-powered pacemakers were produced that could be worn outside the body. Then, in the 1960s, pacemakers that could be surgically implanted inside the body were developed.

Pacemaker patients are monitored very carefully by their doctors for the first few months after surgery. But then a simple telephone call can substitute for an office visit. The pacemaker clinic, equipped with an electrocardiograph recorder and an automatic pacemaker pulse-reading device, can "listen" to the patient's heartbeat by means of a compact heart signal transmitter the patient carries.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Dawn Rogers, 15, of Venice, Fla., for her question:

ARE ALL LADYBUGS FEMALES?

The ladybug, more properly called the "ladybug beatle," belongs to a worldwide group of about 4,000 ladybird beetles. These little red and black cuties destroy pesky, damaging insects and help protect crops all over the world. Because they dine on bugs, larvae and eggs rather than juicy plants, ladybugs are especially welcome visitors to a garden. Many species have been brought successfully into insect-ridden areas where they multiply and help get rid of plant-eating pests.

There are male and female ladybugs, but the two sexes cannot be determined on the basis of general appearance. Several times during her lifetime, the female lays fertilized eggs, which hatch into larvae. Then, after shedding their skin periodically as they grow heavier and larger, the grubs pupate before emerging as full-fledged adults. The grown-up ladybug gives off a yellow, strong-smelling secretion that apparently is pretty powerful. Not to us, of course, but insect-eating animals must not like it at all, for they leave the ladybug strictly alone.

Blockage can prove fatal

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

All today's three-notrump contract requires is a little care. Without this modicum of care, declarer will make just eight tricks and will be entitled to just a little bit of complaint about bad luck.

With a little care in the play he will take his nine tricks and be ready for the next rubber.

South ducks the first heart, but wins the heart continuation. Then he starts happily after the nice diamond suit. If he is careless he leads to dummy's king and back to his queen. East shows out and our carless hero has fallen. He must now take the third diamond with dummy's ace and the fourth diamond traps him in his hand with no way to get to dummy's fifth diamond.

The suit blocks. He can't score five diamond tricks and has to fall back on a spade finesse. The finesse loses and West cashes three more heart tricks.

A careful declarer plays his queen of diamonds first and continues with a diamond to dummy's king. East shows out whereupon South simply leads one of dummy's hearts and chucks a diamond. West takes his heart tricks, but that only gives the defense four tricks and South picks up the rest.

Blockage can prove fatal

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

All today's three-notrump contract requires is a little care. Without this modicum of care, declarer will make just eight tricks and will be entitled to just a little bit of complaint about bad luck.

With a little care in the play he will take his nine tricks and be ready for the next rubber.

South ducks the first heart, but wins the heart continuation. Then he starts happily after the nice diamond suit. If he is careless he leads to dummy's king and back to his queen. East shows out and our carless hero has fallen. He must now take the third diamond with dummy's ace and the fourth diamond traps him in his hand with no way to get to dummy's fifth diamond.

The suit blocks. He can't score five diamond tricks and has to fall back on a spade finesse. The finesse loses and West cashes three more heart tricks.

A careful declarer plays his queen of diamonds first and continues with a diamond to dummy's king. East shows out whereupon South simply leads one of dummy's hearts and chucks a diamond. West takes his heart tricks, but that only gives the defense four tricks and South picks up the rest.

New or hand-down, furnishings make apartment 'home'

Jay Woodlief's florist shop proved a bonus in decorating that first home.

by BARBARA LADD

Not every couple can start married life with an apartment or house modeled after their Better Homes and Gardens dream. Instead many newlyweds tighten the purse strings and do their best while getting on their financial feet.

Still, furnishing that first home attractively can be done, say two recently married Northwest suburban couples. It just takes some pre-planning, much shopping the furniture stores and plenty of late-attic creativity.

"We bought a lot of our furniture before we were married," explained Joy Woodlief, Palatine. "We kept our eye out for sales on the pieces we liked."

She and husband Jay were engaged more than a year before their marriage last May and they estimate they saved 25 to 30 per cent by purchasing sale items.

"BUT YOU NEED some place to put the stuff while waiting to get married," said Jay, laughing. Their large modern style couch occupied one end of his parents' garage for nearly a year and a rattan chair sat in Joy's bedroom at home for several months.

While the Woodliefs' taste in furniture is similar, "we didn't know how it would all go together," said Joy. "We bought everything piece by piece."

They purchased their butcher block style dinette set for a 20 per cent discount because it was a floor model.

"Jay had to argue about it," Joy chuckled. "The store wasn't going to give us anything off, but we figured since it was a floor model, we should get something off."

Nicks, scratches and other carefully searched for irregularities ultimately netted them the discount.

ELBOW GREASE can also save money for those who like ready-made furniture. Jay estimated he saved about $100 by assembling stacked bookshelves himself. The shelves come ready to put together; all Jay had to do was screw legs into prefinished boards.

However, Jay warned, look everything over before taking it home to be sure each piece is undamaged.

Jay's job in a florist shop has proved another plus. Cuttings from plants may be found throughout their one-bedroom apartment and a tastefully arranged corner of plants adds a personal touch to the living room.

Plants can add effectively to any home, according to professional decorators, but not everyone has a green thumb.

"I read somewhere that the cheapest way to furnish a home is with plants," said Beverly Allen, Hoffman Estates. "But with me it's getting expensive."

SHE AND HER husband, Steven, furnished their one-bedroom apartment for about $100, she said. That did not include the new bedroom set they bought when they were married last May.

"We acquired a lot from our relatives," Bev explained. And they worked on those hand-me-downs until everything seemed different, if not brand new.

Steven antiqued an old dresser which is used now as a divider between living and dining areas. They are especially proud of their dining room table, once a 25-year-old basement piece with rusted chrome legs. Steve took it apart, put about $50 into it and now the chrome looks like new and the tabletop as if it just came from a furniture store.

Another do-it-yourself project Steve has undertaken is a wooden coffee table, which, though not quite finished, promises to be an attractive addition to their living room for a nominal $15.

"THE MORE YOU can put of yourself into an apartment, the nicer it is," said Bev. "When you start with so little, just finishing bits and pieces

Small nicks and scratches saved money on dinette set.

No seminar this fall

School bells will not ring this fall for publicity chairmen and presidents of organizations whose news appears in the women's pages of the Heralds.

After 12 years of conducting the publicity seminars, the Herald women's editors have decided that the news chairmen of area clubs are already schooled in the who, what, where, when, why and how of writing publicity.

However, the Heralds must acknowledge that the decision to abandon the seminars was partly due to the newspaper's growth and its policy of consolidation of club news and briefer notices (which make for easier reading), and also because suburban clubwomen are so busy working, homemaking and volunteering that it is difficult to find a time when all clubs can be represented at the seminars.

FOR THOSE WHO feel they need help, the Heralds still have a handbook on writing club publicity available free at our offices. Questions will also be answered over the phone.

All those submitting news are still requested to include with each release a phone number where they can be reached during daytime office hours.

Former sister-in-law still liable for loan

Women and children first
by Julie Martoccio

Dear Attorney Martoccio:

A few years ago, I lent some money to my brother and his wife as a down payment on a house. I have a note signed by both of them for this money plus interest. Only a small part has been paid back.

They are now divorced and she has remarried. I would like to know if my brother's ex-wife is still responsible for paying back part of the money, and how do I go about collecting it? I am a widow with small children and could use the money.—P.O.

Dear P.O.:

The fact that your sister-in-law is no longer married to your brother but to someone else does not in itself relieve her from responsibility for the money she owes you.

• If she co-signed with your brother, you have a choice of proceeding against either your brother or her or both.

It's too bad you did not secure your loan by taking a mortgage on the property. Or if the amount was small, obtain other security.

• If letters (registered mail) requesting payment fail, you may have to hire a lawyer to sue her, obtain a judgment and then proceed to collect it against her share of the property. If she has disposed of it by this time and is employed again, you will probably want to sue, get a judgment and proceed against her salary.

The only other suggestion I can offer depends upon the amount of money you lent her and how much is still owing, facts that you did not mention in your letter.

• If she owes you $300 or less, you may wish to file a suit in the Pro Se Small Claims Court. Pro Se is a Latin term meaning "for himself" or "in his own behalf." No lawyer is permitted to participate in this court and the atmosphere is more informal than a typical courtroom.

Information about the Pro Se Small Claims court may be obtained by calling or writing to the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Civic Center, Chicago, 60602.

New or hand-down, furnishings make apartment 'home'

by BARBARA LADD

Jay Woodlief's florist shop proved a bonus in decorating that first home.

Small nicks and scratches saved money on dinette set.

Not every couple can start married life with an apartment or house modeled after their Better Homes and Gardens dream. Instead many newlyweds tighten the purse strings and do their best while getting on their financial feet.

Still, furnishing that first home attractively can be done, say two recently married Northwest suburban couples. It just takes some pre-planning, much shopping the furniture stores and plenty of late-attic creativity.

"We bought a lot of our furniture before we were married," explained Joy Woodlief, Palatine. "We kept our eye out for sales on the pieces we liked."

She and husband Jay were engaged more than a year before their marriage last May and they estimate they saved 25 to 30 per cent by purchasing sale items.

"BUT YOU NEED some place to put the stuff while waiting to get married," said Jay, laughing. Their large modern style couch occupied one end of his parents' garage for nearly a year and a rattan chair sat in Joy's bedroom at home for several months.

While the Woodliefs' taste in furniture is similar, "we didn't know how it would all go together," said Joy. "We bought everything piece by piece."

They purchased their butcher block style dinette set for a 20 per cent discount because it was a floor model.

"Jay had to argue about it," Joy chuckled. "The store wasn't going to give us anything off, but we figured since it was a floor model, we should get something off."

Nicks, scratches and other carefully searched for irregularities ultimately netted them the discount.

ELBOW GREASE can also save money for those who like ready-made furniture. Jay estimated he saved about $100 by assembling stacked bookshelves himself. The shelves come ready to put together; all Jay had to do was screw legs into prefinished boards.

However, Jay warned, look everything over before taking it home to be sure each piece is undamaged.

Jay's job in a florist shop has proved another plus. Cuttings from plants may be found throughout their one-bedroom apartment and a tastefully arranged corner of plants adds a personal touch to the living room.

Plants can add effectively to any home, according to professional decorators, but not everyone has a green thumb.

"I read somewhere that the cheapest way to furnish a home is with plants," said Beverly Allen, Hoffman Estates. "But with me it's getting expensive."

SHE AND HER husband, Steven, furnished their one-bedroom apartment for about $100, she said. That did not include the new bedroom set they bought when they were married last May.

"We acquired a lot from our relatives," Bev explained. And they worked on those hand-me-downs until everything seemed different, if not brand new.

Steven antiqued an old dresser which is used now as a divider between living and dining areas. They are especially proud of their dining room table, once a 25-year-old basement piece with rusted chrome legs. Steve took it apart, put about $50 into it and now the chrome looks like new and the tabletop as if it just came from a furniture store.

Another do-it-yourself project Steve has undertaken is a wooden coffee table, which, though not quite finished, promises to be an attractive addition to their living room for a nominal $15.

"THE MORE YOU can put of yourself into an apartment, the nicer it is," said Bev. "When you start with so little, just finishing bits and pieces

No seminar this fall

School bells will not ring this fall for publicity chairmen and presidents of organizations whose news appears in the women's pages of the Heralds.

After 12 years of conducting the publicity seminars, the Herald women's editors have decided that the news chairmen of area clubs are already schooled in the who, what, where, when, why and how of writing publicity.

However, the Heralds must acknowledge that the decision to abandon the seminars was partly due to the newspaper's growth and its policy of consolidation of club news and briefer notices (which make for easier reading), and also because suburban clubwomen are so busy working, homemaking and volunteering that it is difficult to find a time when all clubs can be represented at the seminars.

FOR THOSE WHO feel they need help, the Heralds still have a handbook on writing club publicity available free at our offices. Questions will also be answered over the phone.

All those submitting news are still requested to include with each release a phone number where they can be reached during daytime office hours.

Former sister-in-law still liable for loan

Women and children first
by Julie Martoccio

Dear Attorney Martoccio:

A few years ago, I lent some money to my brother and his wife as a down payment on a house. I have a note signed by both of them for this money plus interest. Only a small part has been paid back.

They are now divorced and she has remarried. I would like to know if my brother's ex-wife is still responsible for paying back part of the money, and how do I go about collecting it? I am a widow with small children and could use the money.—P.O.

Arthritis quacks prey on victims

My hustand has had rheumatoid arthritis since 1948. He is 50 years old now. The disease stopped him from doing the type of work he was doing. In 1954 to 1959 he went to school. In 1959 he went to work as a bookkeeper and since then he has lost no work due to the arthritis. He is unable to walk very far or use his hands too much without pain and swelling. But he has led a fairly normal life. Now all of a sudden he feels he wants to try every quack thing that comes along. We have always watched his diet and we eat no fried foods, very little sweets. Now an outfit he is talking to is telling him no wheat, oats, milk products (only cream), no pork. But he can have all the eggs he wants. Won't that give him too much cholesterol for his age? He reads your column. If you would be able to write about this, he would appreciate it.

I don't mind spending money, but all the things he tries never help that much. He is on Darvon Compound 65 now from our family doctor, plus all the Vita Lea, Vit C, alfalfa tablets, calcium tablets and protein from the so-called health group he is involved with.

Your husband should talk to his doctor about that health group he is getting advice from. That is not a bona fide medical group. They are in business to sell vitamins and so-called health food products. Your husband is only one of the many victims of frauds in the treatment of arthritis. There are plenty of quacks ready to prey on the victims of arthritis. Selling phony cures to arthritis victims is a multimillion dollar business. My best advice to all the arthritics of all types is to never, never, never use any treatment that is not recommended by your doctor. Do not buy anything from door-to-door salesmen or fall for supposed miracle cures.

Vitamins are useful in people who need them, but health faddists, not doctors, who have been pushing them for cure of arthritis are really a public health menace. While a person thinks he is getting or is going to get help from vitamins or alfalfa tablets, the joints may be undergoing permanent changes that could have been prevented. There is no evidence that any vitamins ever cured or improved a single case of arthritis. Anyone who tells you otherwise is either ignorant of the facts, has an untrained unscientific mind or may be a quack.

THAT DIET SOUNDS terrible. Certainly consuming a lot of egg yolks can increase the cholesterol intake in the diet and is contrary to the recommendations of the American Heart Assn. in the prevention of heart disease. I am confident he didn't get that diet from a reputable physician.

I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 4-11, Rheumatoid Arthritis. You can find the address there of the nearest arthritis chapter to get advice on arthritis clinics or where you can get a theumatologist to supervise your husband's care. The most important thing a patient with rheumatoid arthritis can do is tt be carefully followed by such a physician or clinic. Ther is a lot that can be done for rheumatoid arthritis and the status is summarized in that issue. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for amiling and 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, Radio City, N.Y. 10019.

Lung cancer cause

Cigaret smoking causes at least 80 per cent of lung cancer cases, according to the American Cancer Society.

The ACS says the risk of lung cancer increases if a close relative has had the disease.

For men, most lung cancers occur between ages 60-69. Men who smoked two or more packs of cigarets a day for 20 years and who started smoking before age 15 are 15 to 20 times more likely to die from lung cancer than men who never smoked.(UPI)

Lung cancer cause

Cigaret smoking causes at least 80 per cent of lung cancer cases, according to the American Cancer Society.

The ACS says the risk of lung cancer increases if a close relative has had the disease.

For men, most lung cancers occur between ages 60-69. Men who smoked two or more packs of cigarets a day for 20 years and who started smoking before age 15 are 15 to 20 times more likely to die from lung cancer than men who never smoked.(UPI) makes people notice the changes."

The Allen's apartment is a casual blend of country style furniture.

"I was brought up in 1960 Early American and Steve grew up in 1960 modern. Now we find we're about the same," said Bev.

As the Allens have, it's important for young couples to find a basic theme for their furnishings and stick to it, advises Joanne Johnson, decorating consultant at Penney's in Woodfield.

"They should find a style they will still want to live with somewhere else," she said. "They should consider buying living room furniture that can be used in a den when they move into a house and they should coordinate the colors to make all their furniture more versatile."

Color and patterns in major pieces of furniture should not necessarily be the current fad or trend, she added.

"IF THIS YEAR purple is popular, for example, it's better to stick with neutral color furniture and add purple as accent. Next year you may not like purple."

On the expenses, it's a question of priorities, said Ms. Johnson.

"Where to put most of your money is something personal," she said. "I'd stay with smaller scale pieces of furniture in case the next apartment isn't as large as the one you're in now. And I'd buy window treatments as cheaply as possible. If you move in a year, what's the point in buying expensive draperies?"

Though couples like the Allens and the Woodliefs don't anticipate staying permanently in their present apartments, they feel it's important to make the first home a settled one.

"We got set up right away," said Bev Allen. "It made the apartment seem like home for us. When you're first married and away from your parents, that's important."

Buffalo Grove team takes state honors

NICE TO MEET you, especially at home plate after Bill Madlock cracked a home run with Jim Tyrone aboard. Cubs beat Phillies in the first game, 4-0, but dropped the nightcap, 8-5.

The Buffalo Grove Bruins won the American Softball Assn. State Tournament for 16-18 year olds by defeating defending champion Rockford, 12-6, in the title game.

It was the fourth straight state title won by a Buffalo Grove softball team. The same group of players won the title for 13-15 year olds last summer.

The Bruins made their big move toward the championship game when they defeated Rockford 7-6 to drop the defending champs into the losers' bracket.

Scott Campbell and Mike Marshall opened the game with walks for the Bruins before Dave Martin, Andy Farrissey and Mike Williams collected RBI singles.

Bob Raymo, Alan Cymbal and Campbell started the second by hitting singles. Martin walked to force in a run and then Phil Czosnyka doubled to score two more.

The Bruins picked up the winning run in the bottom of the seventh when Martin and Czosnyka collected singles, Farrissey walked and Tim Prokof came through with a game-winning hit.

Buffalo Grove followed that victory with a 12-4 win over Carpet Manor from Joliet. The Bruins scored seven runs in the first two innings, highlighted by Martin's triple in the second.

In the title game, the key inning was the second again as the Bruins scored seven times. Williams started the rally and was followed by Prokof, Raymo, Czosnyka, Cymbal, Ledna and Martin, all collecting hits.

Ledna pitched all three games for the Bruins and was supported by some fine defense.

Head coach Bob Campbell and his assistants, Frank Marshall and Ray Williams, will now take the team to Haines City, Fla., for the national tournament. The Bruins will be leaving Monday for the 12-inch, slow-pitch tourney.

Dr. Richard Carlucci of Fox Lake, the team's sponsor, has provided funds for the trip.

LAURA STERN of Arlington Heights takes her horse through a jump in recent competition. The 14-year-old Buffalo Grove High School student will perform today through Sunday in the Barrington Horse Show.

Area champion makes bid for more riding honors

Award-winning rider Laura Stern of Arlington Heights will be a featured attraction in the Barrington Horse Show beginning today and running through Sunday at the Barrington Riding Center.

Stern, a 14-year-old honor student at Buffalo Grove High School, has recently returned from the Wayzata Country Club Horse Show in Wayzata, Minn. where she captured three awards for jumping.

Riding Kim Neiderman's Newcastle, Stern won the Green Open Jumper Championship and the Junior/Amateur Jumper Championship. She also received the Perpetual Trophy as the leading junior rider of 1976.

Stern will again be riding Newcastle at Barrington, in addition to Tracy Kleronomos' jumper, Uncle Phil.

Two of the judges, Frank and Mary Chapot, will be flying in from the Olympic Equestrian events in Montreal. Frank Chapot is captain of the U.S. Equestrian team.

Also on hand for the show will be former Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian, who will film Stern's performance for his new television series, Ara's Sports World, on ABC.

Stern is coached by Wally Holly, a former member of the U.S. Equestrian team and one of the top riders in the Midwest.

Simmons takes verbal swipe at Cards' fans

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An unusual thing has happened lately when Ted Simmons strolls to the plate. Hometown fans are booing him.

It's not because the Cardinal catcher has fallen off his usual .300 batting average or because he will finish the season far behind last year's totals of 18 homers and 100 runs batted in.

It's because the 26-year-old switch-hitter has taken a verbal swipe at St. Louis sports fans for every interviewer who points a pencil or microphone his way.

"I don't consider St. Louis to be a great sports town like I've been hearing it is for the past seven years," Simmons said. "I don't want to hear about this being a great sports town."

Simmons said the thoughts have been brewing in his head for some time, but had to come out after a particularly inept display by his team against the Cubs in late July.

The Cardinals, destined to finish 20-plus games behind the winner in the National League East, have been experimenting with younger players as the long, long season draws to a close. A finger injury to Mike Tyson also created a vacancy at second base.

With Vic Harris subbing for Tyson and Simmons taking over third base, each committed a pair of errors which drew a spattering of boos from the crowd.

"Ted Simmons goes out and plays third base for two games and makes two errors and they boo. That's bleep," said Simmons. "There are certain things they have to recognize.

"Vic Harris hadn't played for three weeks. They have to recognize that," he said. "No matter how much they'd rather have Tyson play second, he can't.

"It's not the boos that bother me. I can put up with that," Simmons explained. "I want to tell the fans, 'Wait a minute, you don't understand. Supporting a club has to go beyond supporting a team when it's doing well.'

"If I really thought they (the fans) knew how bad we really are playing, I wouldn't have said anything. But they don't really know when we're playing well, either," he added.

Simmons pointed to cities such as Detroit, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia as good sports towns, meaning the fans are knowledgeable and support their clubs even when they're losing.

"I understand their frustration," Simmons said of St. Louis fans. "But in the great sports towns, the fans come to the ball park even if their team is down."

Simmons, the Cardinals' $600,000 man for the next three seasons, said his gripe was not related to his personal sub-par showing. He is under the .300 mark and had only three homers entering August.

"I know my homers aren't up there, but I'm doing all right," he said. "I'm not dying on the vine."

Simmons said he thought about the adverse reaction his remarks would create.

"I know that's going to happen," he said of the boos. "What I said might not change things one iota. But if it does, it'll be worth it."

Sue Cripe stars in invitational

Sue Cripe, swimming for Camp Duncan YMCA in AAU competition, turned in the outstanding performance in the Senior Women's division Saturday and Sunday in the Bloomington-Normal Invitational.

Sue won four of the five events she entered, finishing second only in the breaststroke. She set new meet records in the 100 yard freestyle at 55.1 and swam 2:00.5 in the 200 yard freestyle. She also won the 500 yard freestyle and the 200 yard individual medley.

At Hinsdale, Julie Shananhan, swimming for the Arlington Heights Park District, set a new meet record in winning the 9 and 10 girls 50 meter breaststroke in 41.7. Chris Takata set personal highs in finishing second in the 13 and 14 100 meter breastroke and third in the Senior Women's Open 200 meter breaststroke. She also placed fourth in the 13 and 14 individual medley. She combined with Michelle Landry, Jane Schramm, and Hannah Fish for a fourth in the medley relay and with Fish, Schramm, and Donna Weider for sixth in the free relay. Shanahan combined with Kim Meyer, Kelly Davis, and Lori Spirek for fifth in the 11 and 12 medley relay.

Jay Takata finished second in the 11 and 12 backstroke. Steve LaBeau placed eighth in the 9 and 10 backstroke while teammate Kirsten Kinglsey placed fourth in backstroke and seventh in freestyle Arlington's last AAU competition will be the Mayor Daley Meet on Aug. 14-15.

Gold but no gold mine for Cuban boxer

Jim Murray

MONTREAL — Doc Kearns would have drooled. Damon Runyon would have made up a nickname for him — probably "The Pink Panther." Grantland Rice would have written a poem. Jack Hurley would have matched him with a whole lot of setups and gone on tour. The Mafia would have tried to get hold of him.

He could have started his own religion. People would be comparing him to Dempsey, Tunney, Louis, Jack Johnson. He could have made $3 million a night.

You couldn't order a better-looking heavyweight title prospect. If he had walked into Stillman's Gym in the old days, Jacobs Beach would have emptied in five minutes. "Honest Bill" Daly would have been waving a contract. Mushky Jackson would have had him over in a corner showing him diamond rings and wrist watches. To a fight manager, he looks like two years on the Riviera, a suite at the Pierre, an immediate settling of the tab at the corner saloon, and the back rent paid up at the McAlpin.

The shoulders slope — the mark of a good hitter. The cheekbones are high, the eyes impassive, the mark of a good taker. The belly is flat, the stomach thin. The balance is as graceful as a Comaneci — or a Comanche. The left jab darts out like a striking snake. The right bounces 200-pounders onto the floor like a dropped safe.

The fight mob searches for years to find the likes of Teofilo Stevenson. They dream of a fighter like this. He looks like a sack of diamonds to a guy with a cigar in his mouth, gravy on his vest and his own deck.

And then they find that teofilo Stevenson is that most leprous of God's creatures — an amateur. "God deliver me from amateurs," the late Doc Kearns, who wasn't even born one, used to say.

Teo Stevenson, the best fighter in the Olympics, could be one of the great fighters of history. A few months with Whitey Bimstein, Ray Arcel, Gil Clancy, Angelo Dundee, and he could make the world forget the Brown Bomber. He hits like Firpo but boxes like Tunney.

But he will never be the property of the Honest Bills, the Mob or the Great White Way. Teofilo fights for the Revolution. He is the property of Fidel Castro.

You may mourn for the athletes of Africa. They are prevented by their governments from getting a gold medal at Montreal.

Teo Stevenson is being prevented by his from getting a gold mine. Cuba, in the glorious Soviet tradition, pretends to despise professionalism. So, they make everybody a professional. It's a matter of degree. You get a lot more money under capitalism. You get a lot more security under Communism. Teo Stevenson shall not want. Neither shall he get a lot.

It pains old-time fight managers to think what he's giving up. Fast, purple cars, foxy ladies in foxier furs, money to light cigars with. Big tips for hat-check girls, shoeshine boys. Soft touches for panhandlers. Your own hairdresser, manicurist.

Everybody's your friend. The phone is ringing night and day. Every night is a parade. Guys open doors for you. Headwaiters snap you to the best tables. The White House is on the phone. People hang on your opinion. Everything you say is funny. You're a big man at the crap tables in Vegas. The foreign press fawns on you. You're a hero to kids. Johnny Carson wants you. Broadway is at your feet. Hollywood wants to do your life story. Norman Mailer writes books about you. Elizabeth Taylor shows up at ringside. Everybody wants to be your friend. Millionaires want to cut you in on good investments. Would-be millionaires cut you in on some bad ones.

Teo Stevenson is turning all this down, Rolls-Royces, ermine apartments, popping champagne, adoring ladies and all, to remain in the people's paradise of the Caribbean.

Teofilo explains very carefully his position on the matter. He does not wave the flag like Alberto Juantorena. His ideology is not so fiery. Teofilo explains only that "all the pro boxers are used as merchandise and exploited. He can collect money but there are a lot of other things he cannot collect. I would not be exploited or merchandised by anyone."

Did he include Muhammad Ali in this category? Teofilo looked grim. "This is not my problem, this is Ali's problem." Was he sorry for the poor exploited Ali? "Millions of children are hungry in the world and millions of dollars are spent for clowns — for Ali and Inoki."

What about the big houses, fast cars, European tours, Manhattan penthouses? Teofilo smiled. "I have everything I need in Cuba. I have no need for big houses or fast cars."

Teofilo of course, is getting the jaundiced view. His idol as a kid was Benny (Kid) Paret. Benny was a big man on the block in Havana when he won the world welterweight championship. But Benny died in the ring of a blood clot produced by the fists of Emile Griffith in 1962. There was not much money left for the widow and children. Charge accounts die with the man. Even the casket is cash.

Eligio Sardinias was an idol of Cuba long before Teofilo was born. As Kid Chocolate, he was the toast of Broadway, featherweight champion of the whole world. He filled the Garden, the Polo Grounds. When last seen Kid Chocolate was shining somebody else's shoes and he was the guy opening limousine doors, bowing.

Kid Gavilan was one of the great fist-fighters of his time. The Cuban Hawk was a stylist with a punch. He danced away every night between fights in Harlem. The dance long ago stopped for Kid Gavilan.

Teofilo Stevenson will never speak through a mashed Adam's apple or a broken nose. Amateurs fight only three rounds against modest opposition. Teofilo's is almost non-existent.

Most of Teofilo's opponents stay on the floor when they're hit. Either because they can't get up, or won't.

It's a good thing the good doctors Kearns and Hurley aren't with us any more. For them, it would be like Dempsey saying he preferred to keep hopping freights, or Billy Petrolle saying he'd stick to his rosary-bead selling or Mickey Walker saying he was going to turn priest. There ought to be a law against it. They would be quick to see through the grift and notice that Castro wasn't an amateur. Of course, neither were they. Although their fighters found out they were a lot more amateur than they thought they were — when the split of the check came.

Gold but no gold mine for Cuban boxer

Jim Murray

MONTREAL — Doc Kearns would have drooled. Damon Runyon would have made up a nickname for him — probably "The Pink Panther." Grantland Rice would have written a poem. Jack Hurley would have matched him with a whole lot of setups and gone on tour. The Mafia would have tried to get hold of him.

He could have started his own religion. People would be comparing him to Dempsey, Tunney, Louis, Jack Johnson. He could have made $3 million a night.

You couldn't order a better-looking heavyweight title prospect. If he had walked into Stillman's Gym in the old days, Jacobs Beach would have emptied in five minutes. "Honest Bill" Daly would have been waving a contract. Mushky Jackson would have had him over in a corner showing him diamond rings and wrist watches. To a fight manager, he looks like two years on the Riviera, a suite at the Pierre, an immediate settling of the tab at the corner saloon, and the back rent paid up at the McAlpin.

The shoulders slope — the mark of a good hitter. The cheekbones are high, the eyes impassive, the mark of a good taker. The belly is flat, the stomach thin. The balance is as graceful as a Comaneci — or a Comanche. The left jab darts out like a striking snake. The right bounces 200-pounders onto the floor like a dropped safe.

The fight mob searches for years to find the likes of Teofilo Stevenson. They dream of a fighter like this. He looks like a sack of diamonds to a guy with a cigar in his mouth, gravy on his vest and his own deck.

And then they find that teofilo Stevenson is that most leprous of God's creatures — an amateur. "God deliver me from amateurs," the late Doc Kearns, who wasn't even born one, used to say.

Teo Stevenson, the best fighter in the Olympics, could be one of the great fighters of history. A few months with Whitey Bimstein, Ray Arcel, Gil Clancy, Angelo Dundee, and he could make the world forget the Brown Bomber. He hits like Firpo but boxes like Tunney.

But he will never be the property of the Honest Bills, the Mob or the Great White Way. Teofilo fights for the Revolution. He is the property of Fidel Castro.

You may mourn for the athletes of Africa. They are prevented by their governments from getting a gold medal at Montreal.

Teo Stevenson is being prevented by his from getting a gold mine. Cuba, in the glorious Soviet tradition, pretends to despise professionalism. So, they make everybody a professional. It's a matter of degree. You get a lot more money under capitalism. You get a lot more security under Communism. Teo Stevenson shall not want. Neither shall he get a lot.

It pains old-time fight managers to think what he's giving up. Fast, purple cars, foxy ladies in foxier furs, money to light cigars with. Big tips for hat-check girls, shoeshine boys. Soft touches for panhandlers. Your own hairdresser, manicurist.

Everybody's your friend. The phone is ringing night and day. Every night is a parade. Guys open doors for you. Headwaiters snap you to the best tables. The White House is on the phone. People hang on your opinion. Everything you say is funny. You're a big man at the crap tables in Vegas. The foreign press fawns on you. You're a hero to kids. Johnny Carson wants you. Broadway is at your feet. Hollywood wants to do your life story. Norman Mailer writes books about you. Elizabeth Taylor shows up at ringside. Everybody wants to be your friend. Millionaires want to cut you in on good investments. Would-be millionaires cut you in on some bad ones.

Teo Stevenson is turning all this down, Rolls-Royces, ermine apartments, popping champagne, adoring ladies and all, to remain in the people's paradise of the Caribbean.

Teofilo explains very carefully his position on the matter. He does not wave the flag like Alberto Juantorena. His ideology is not so fiery. Teofilo explains only that "all the pro boxers are used as merchandise and exploited. He can collect money but there are a lot of other things he cannot collect. I would not be exploited or merchandised by anyone."

Did he include Muhammad Ali in this category? Teofilo looked grim. "This is not my problem, this is Ali's problem." Was he sorry for the poor exploited Ali? "Millions of children are hungry in the world and millions of dollars are spent for clowns — for Ali and Inoki."

What about the big houses, fast cars, European tours, Manhattan penthouses? Teofilo smiled. "I have everything I need in Cuba. I have no need for big houses or fast cars."

Teofilo of course, is getting the jaundiced view. His idol as a kid was Benny (Kid) Paret. Benny was a big man on the block in Havana when he won the world welterweight championship. But Benny died in the ring of a blood clot produced by the fists of Emile Griffith in 1962. There was not much money left for the widow and children. Charge accounts die with the man. Even the casket is cash.

Eligio Sardinias was an idol of Cuba long before Teofilo was born. As Kid Chocolate, he was the toast of Broadway, featherweight champion of the whole world. He filled the Garden, the Polo Grounds. When last seen Kid Chocolate was shining somebody else's shoes and he was the guy opening limousine doors, bowing.

Kid Gavilan was one of the great fist-fighters of his time. The Cuban Hawk was a stylist with a punch. He danced away every night between fights in Harlem. The dance long ago stopped for Kid Gavilan.

Teofilo Stevenson will never speak through a mashed Adam's apple or a broken nose. Amateurs fight only three rounds against modest opposition. Teofilo's is almost non-existent.

Most of Teofilo's opponents stay on the floor when they're hit. Either because they can't get up, or won't.

It's a good thing the good doctors Kearns and Hurley aren't with us any more. For them, it would be like Dempsey saying he preferred to keep hopping freights, or Billy Petrolle saying he'd stick to his rosary-bead selling or Mickey Walker saying he was going to turn priest. There ought to be a law against it. They would be quick to see through the grift and notice that Castro wasn't an amateur. Of course, neither were they. Although their fighters found out they were a lot more amateur than they thought they were — when the split of the check came.

Consider Greece as Olympic games site

ATHENS — The International Olympic Committee will discuss Greece's proposal for the Olympic Games to return to their birthplace, the IOC President said in a letter made public Tuesday.

Lord Killanin said he would include "with future policy documentation so that it can be discussed" a letter from Premier Constantine Caramanlis suggesting the Games in future be staged at their original site in Olympia to save them from politics and high finance.

Killanin said he appreciated the spirit in which Caramanlis' letter was written but he made it clear that he doubted there would be any changes in the IOC's long-term policy which allows countries to bid for the staging of the games.

The next Olympic Games will be held in Moscow and a government spokesman explained that the Greek proposal was not meant to take the next games from the Soviet Union but rather was a far ranging plan. The organizing countries of the 1984 series will be selected in two years time.

Franulovic sends Ashe to sidelines

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Zelko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, struggling to regain his place among world's top tennis players, upset third-seeded Arthur Ashe Tuesday, 6-4, 6-4, in the second round of the $100,000 Volvo International tennis tournament.

Ashe, the 1975 Wimbledon and WCT champion, has not made it past the quarter finals of a tournament since May and looked awkward on the red clay courts at the Mt. Cranmore Tennis Club.

In other second round matches, defending champion and top-seed Jimmy Connors whipped Hans Kary of Austria, 6-1, 6-3; second-seed Manuel Drantes of Spain ousted countryman Juan Gisbert, 6-3, 6-3; and Ken Rosewall of Australia overpowered Alzaro Beancour of Columbia, 6-4, 6-1. Fourth-seed Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat John Bartlett of Australia, 6-0, 6-3, and Eddie Dibbs of Miami, seeded fifth, eliminated Nick Saviano, Los Altos, Calif., 6-0, 6-4, in first round play.

Russian loves freedom, not women

MONTREAL — Attorneys said Tuesday teenage Soviet Olympic diver Sergei Nemtsanov defected for love, but it was for love of freedom, and not due to an affair of the heart with an American girl as has been widely reported.

Alex K. Paterson, who acts as Montreal lawyer and security screen for 17-year old Nemtsanov, in seclusion since his Thursday defection, scoffed in an interview Tuesday at reports the athlete was in love with an American millionaire's daughter.

"That's not the reason for his defection," he said, and spokesmen for the department of Imigration and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) agreed.

"What he has told us and what he has told everyone about his reasons for defecting is that he wanted freedom — freedom to travel and move about and follow the life he wants."

Washington team would kill Orioles

WASHINGTON — Bob Short, who took baseball out of the nation's capital, testified Tuesday it is financially impossible to have major league teams in both Washington and Baltimore. The former owner of the Washington Senators and Texas Rangers told a special House committee on professional sports that one franchise inevitably would have to move from the area.

He speculated if a National League team goes into Washington, the Baltimore Orioles would be the one to fail. Short said during his three-year tenure as an owner in Washington, he offered Baltimore owner Jerold Hoffberger as much as $3 million to move the Orioles but was turned down.

He said the action of former Washington owner Clark Griffin in allowing the St. Louis Browns franchise to switch to Baltimore was "sheer idiocy" and "the greatest mistake baseball ever made." Short told the House group only New York and Los Angeles have enough population and broadcast revenues to support two teams.

Car racer Lauda remains critical

MANNHEIM, West Germany — Doctors fighting for the life of world automobile racing champion Niki Lauda, who was injured in Sunday's German Grand Prix, described his condition Tuesday as still critical. The doctors at the Mannheim University Clinic said they have brought the 27-year-old Austrian's heart, circulatory system and lung functioning under control. "But he still is on the critical list," they said. "He is conscious and is being fed intravenously.

Lauda, the 1975 Formula 1 world champion, damaged his lungs by inhaling poisonous fumes when his red Ferrari crashed in flames on the second lap on the tricky Nuerburgring track at Adenau. He also was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit for second and third degree burns on his face and hands, a broken cheekbone and chest injuries.

Former Bear Lyle sues physicians

Former Chicago Bears safety Garry Lyle filed a $1.5 million suit Tuesday against the Bears and two club doctors, charging the doctors "negligently" treated a foot injury he suffered last year. He named both doctors — Lowell S. Weil, a podiatrist, and team physician Theodore A. Fox — as defendants in the suit filed in Cook County Circuit Court. He is asking $250,000 from each doctor and $1 million from the Bears.

The suit said Lyle, 30, still would have income potential as a professional athlete if the injury he suffered to his right foot in August, 1975, had been allowed to heal properly. Lyle, who was a third round draft pick nine years ago, said in the suit that both doctors "overprescribed and overadministered medication" and should have been aware their treatment "would further aggravate the foot and endanger the chance of recovery."

The Bears and the doctors allowed Lyle to play knowing that his "foot was not in suitable condition" for the activity, the suit said. A hearing date has not yet been set. Lyle is also suing the Bears for 1975 wages of $42,500 he said the club owes him.

Consider Greece as Olympic games site

ATHENS — The International Olympic Committee will discuss Greece's proposal for the Olympic Games to return to their birthplace, the IOC President said in a letter made public Tuesday.

Lord Killanin said he would include "with future policy documentation so that it can be discussed" a letter from Premier Constantine Caramanlis suggesting the Games in future be staged at their original site in Olympia to save them from politics and high finance.

Killanin said he appreciated the spirit in which Caramanlis' letter was written but he made it clear that he doubted there would be any changes in the IOC's long-term policy which allows countries to bid for the staging of the games.

The next Olympic Games will be held in Moscow and a government spokesman explained that the Greek proposal was not meant to take the next games from the Soviet Union but rather was a far ranging plan. The organizing countries of the 1984 series will be selected in two years time.

Franulovic sends Ashe to sidelines

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Zelko Franulovic of Yugoslavia, struggling to regain his place among world's top tennis players, upset third-seeded Arthur Ashe Tuesday, 6-4, 6-4, in the second round of the $100,000 Volvo International tennis tournament.

Ashe, the 1975 Wimbledon and WCT champion, has not made it past the quarter finals of a tournament since May and looked awkward on the red clay courts at the Mt. Cranmore Tennis Club.

In other second round matches, defending champion and top-seed Jimmy Connors whipped Hans Kary of Austria, 6-1, 6-3; second-seed Manuel Drantes of Spain ousted countryman Juan Gisbert, 6-3, 6-3; and Ken Rosewall of Australia overpowered Alzaro Beancour of Columbia, 6-4, 6-1. Fourth-seed Raul Ramirez of Mexico beat John Bartlett of Australia, 6-0, 6-3, and Eddie Dibbs of Miami, seeded fifth, eliminated Nick Saviano, Los Altos, Calif., 6-0, 6-4, in first round play.

Russian loves freedom, not women

MONTREAL — Attorneys said Tuesday teenage Soviet Olympic diver Sergei Nemtsanov defected for love, but it was for love of freedom, and not due to an affair of the heart with an American girl as has been widely reported.

Alex K. Paterson, who acts as Montreal lawyer and security screen for 17-year old Nemtsanov, in seclusion since his Thursday defection, scoffed in an interview Tuesday at reports the athlete was in love with an American millionaire's daughter.

"That's not the reason for his defection," he said, and spokesmen for the department of Imigration and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) agreed.

"What he has told us and what he has told everyone about his reasons for defecting is that he wanted freedom — freedom to travel and move about and follow the life he wants."

Washington team would kill Orioles

WASHINGTON — Bob Short, who took baseball out of the nation's capital, testified Tuesday it is financially impossible to have major league teams in both Washington and Baltimore. The former owner of the Washington Senators and Texas Rangers told a special House committee on professional sports that one franchise inevitably would have to move from the area.

He speculated if a National League team goes into Washington, the Baltimore Orioles would be the one to fail. Short said during his three-year tenure as an owner in Washington, he offered Baltimore owner Jerold Hoffberger as much as $3 million to move the Orioles but was turned down.

He said the action of former Washington owner Clark Griffin in allowing the St. Louis Browns franchise to switch to Baltimore was "sheer idiocy" and "the greatest mistake baseball ever made." Short told the House group only New York and Los Angeles have enough population and broadcast revenues to support two teams.

Car racer Lauda remains critical

MANNHEIM, West Germany — Doctors fighting for the life of world automobile racing champion Niki Lauda, who was injured in Sunday's German Grand Prix, described his condition Tuesday as still critical. The doctors at the Mannheim University Clinic said they have brought the 27-year-old Austrian's heart, circulatory system and lung functioning under control. "But he still is on the critical list," they said. "He is conscious and is being fed intravenously.

Lauda, the 1975 Formula 1 world champion, damaged his lungs by inhaling poisonous fumes when his red Ferrari crashed in flames on the second lap on the tricky Nuerburgring track at Adenau. He also was being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit for second and third degree burns on his face and hands, a broken cheekbone and chest injuries.

Former Bear Lyle sues physicians

Former Chicago Bears safety Garry Lyle filed a $1.5 million suit Tuesday against the Bears and two club doctors, charging the doctors "negligently" treated a foot injury he suffered last year. He named both doctors — Lowell S. Weil, a podiatrist, and team physician Theodore A. Fox — as defendants in the suit filed in Cook County Circuit Court. He is asking $250,000 from each doctor and $1 million from the Bears.

The suit said Lyle, 30, still would have income potential as a professional athlete if the injury he suffered to his right foot in August, 1975, had been allowed to heal properly. Lyle, who was a third round draft pick nine years ago, said in the suit that both doctors "overprescribed and overadministered medication" and should have been aware their treatment "would further aggravate the foot and endanger the chance of recovery."

The Bears and the doctors allowed Lyle to play knowing that his "foot was not in suitable condition" for the activity, the suit said. A hearing date has not yet been set. Lyle is also suing the Bears for 1975 wages of $42,500 he said the club owes him.

Recreation Park swimmers splash to city honors

Recreation Park's strong swimming team that went through its dual meet undefeated displayed its strength Saturday in winning the Arlington Heights City Championship with 1033 points. The meet involved all six Arlington pools and was sponsored by the Lions Club of Arlington Heights.

Recreation with high point winners in six of the eight divisions won a total of 17 of the 32 events and all four freestyle relays. The team is coached by Sherry Meyers, Steve Nowack, and Mark McCullagh. The high total was accumulated by 12 place scoring and Rec Park scored three to six swimmers in a large number of events.

Twenty-three records were broken, including most of the marks in the 8 & Under and 9 & 10 age brackets. Double winners in the meet were Patsy Sullivan (Camelot) and Tommy Kaczmarek (Recreation), 8 & Under Division; (9 & 10) Jennifer Ailshie, David Dee, and Philip Walters of Recreation; (11 & 12) Jim Ailshie of Recreation; Laura Hildebrandt in the 13 & 14 division, also with Recreation.

Recreation now has won or tied the past six city meets.

Barrington archer is 'World Champion'

John Ashburn of Barrington went to Scotland last week with high hopes of winning the world field archery championship.

His performance during the five-day tournament at Dunfermline even exceeded those hopes as he returned home Monday with the title "World Champion" of the unlimited class. He scored 2,778 out of a possible 2,800 during the meet, which ran from July 26-30.

Included in his score was a perfect round of 560 out of 560 on Friday. "It is the first time a perfect round has ever been shot in Europe," said Ashburn Tuesday.

Ironically, the same day he shot that perfect score, July 30, the United States was winning two Olympic gold medals in archery at Montreal. Ashburn didn't compete there because the Olympics does not have an unlimited division at this time. "But I think they will soon," he said.

Ashburn won't be able to find out because he is now turning professional.

"I put a lot of work into it, five years worth, for a chance at the world championship. And I wasn't sure that I would ever be able to compete in it because until this year the IFAA didn't have an unlimited division.

"But I got my chance this year and won it, so now I'm going to try it as a professional."

Ashburn terms the prize money situation in the professional ranks as "at the point where it's now relatively decent." He'll be competing Labor Day weekend in the First Annual Memphis Open where the first prize is $11,500 out of a total purse of $56,000.

For winning the world title the 21-year-old Ashburn was presented a 22-karat gold-plated Hallmark silver medal. As a professional the rewards should be even better.

Recreation Park swimmers splash to city honors

Recreation Park's strong swimming team that went through its dual meet undefeated displayed its strength Saturday in winning the Arlington Heights City Championship with 1033 points. The meet involved all six Arlington pools and was sponsored by the Lions Club of Arlington Heights.

Recreation with high point winners in six of the eight divisions won a total of 17 of the 32 events and all four freestyle relays. The team is coached by Sherry Meyers, Steve Nowack, and Mark McCullagh. The high total was accumulated by 12 place scoring and Rec Park scored three to six swimmers in a large number of events.

Twenty-three records were broken, including most of the marks in the 8 & Under and 9 & 10 age brackets. Double winners in the meet were Patsy Sullivan (Camelot) and Tommy Kaczmarek (Recreation), 8 & Under Division; (9 & 10) Jennifer Ailshie, David Dee, and Philip Walters of Recreation; (11 & 12) Jim Ailshie of Recreation; Laura Hildebrandt in the 13 & 14 division, also with Recreation.

Recreation now has won or tied the past six city meets.

Barrington archer is 'World Champion'

John Ashburn of Barrington went to Scotland last week with high hopes of winning the world field archery championship.

His performance during the five-day tournament at Dunfermline even exceeded those hopes as he returned home Monday with the title "World Champion" of the unlimited class. He scored 2,778 out of a possible 2,800 during the meet, which ran from July 26-30.

Included in his score was a perfect round of 560 out of 560 on Friday. "It is the first time a perfect round has ever been shot in Europe," said Ashburn Tuesday.

Ironically, the same day he shot that perfect score, July 30, the United States was winning two Olympic gold medals in archery at Montreal. Ashburn didn't compete there because the Olympics does not have an unlimited division at this time. "But I think they will soon," he said.

Ashburn won't be able to find out because he is now turning professional.

"I put a lot of work into it, five years worth, for a chance at the world championship. And I wasn't sure that I would ever be able to compete in it because until this year the IFAA didn't have an unlimited division.

"But I got my chance this year and won it, so now I'm going to try it as a professional."

Ashburn terms the prize money situation in the professional ranks as "at the point where it's now relatively decent." He'll be competing Labor Day weekend in the First Annual Memphis Open where the first prize is $11,500 out of a total purse of $56,000.

For winning the world title the 21-year-old Ashburn was presented a 22-karat gold-plated Hallmark silver medal. As a professional the rewards should be even better.

Oakland ends loss streak at expense of White Sox

by BOB GALLAS

The Oakland A's, happy to be anywhere but Minnesota, broke their six-game losing streak with a 7-3 win over the White Sox and John 'Blue Moon' Odom at Comiskey Park Tuesday night.

The A's, whose losing streak started against the Sox last Wednesday on Odom and Francisco Barrios' combined no-hitter and stretched to six games with five losses in a row against Minnesota over the weekend, chased Odom early.

Odom, who'd won two games since joining the Sox from the minors, was no mystery to his former mates who nicked him for a pair of runs in the first inning, and two more in the second.

The Sox closed to within one run at 4-3 in the bottom of the sixth, but the A's then trotted out the heavy artillery against reliever Pete Vucovich and put the game away with a run in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

By the time Clay Carroll came on to pitch in the eighth, things were pretty much out of hand as Veeck's Wrecks were down 7-3.

Carroll's appearance was the only bright spot in an otherwise dismal night for the South Siders, who are sinking fast in the American League West. It was the first appearance for the righthanded relief ace since June 30 and he looked sharp, putting down the Oakland rally in the eighth and giving up but two hits in his 1-2/3 inning stint.

Carroll went on the disabled list July 4th after he broke a bone in his pitching hand in a home accident. He was added to the active roster just before Tuesday's game.

The A's made it clear to Odom right away that he'd have no chance for another no-hitter.

Bill North singled to lead off the game and eventually scored on a two-out double by Joe Rudi. That brought up Sal Bando who in trying to pull the bat back away from a pitch, lifted an excuse me single that scored Rudi.

Odom knocked the A's down in order in the second but was right back in trouble when North and Bert Campaneris led off the third with singles. Odom then hit Don Baylor with a pitch to load the bases.

Blue Moon almost pitched out of that one as he struck out the next two hitters, no less than Rudi and Bando. But Gene Tenace stroked a single to score two more Oakland runs and after Odom walked Billy Williams, Vucovich came in to pitch for the Sox.

Vucovich killed off the Oakland rally by getting Phil Garner to ground out unassisted to Jim Spencer.

The Sox made it 4-2 with two runs in the bottom of the fourth when Chet Lemon doubled and Ralph Garr singled to open the inning. Jorge Orta singled in Lemon and Garr scored on a sacrifice fly by Spencer.

The A's added their fifth run in the seventh when Rudi singled home his second run of the night, bringing home North, who'd led off with a single and went to third on two infield outs.

The killing blow came in the eighth when the A's chased Vuckovich with a pair of runs. Tenace, who was 2-for-5 with a pair of RBIs, doubled to lead off and scored on Phil Garner's single. The final Oakland run came when Garner scored on an infield out off Carroll to make it 7-3.

Starter Dick Bosman (8-7) got the win with relief help from Paul Lindblad and Rollie Fingers. Odom, 2-1, took the loss.

To make room for Carroll on the roster, the Sox sent rookie righthander Chris Knapp back to their Iowa farm club.

Knapp had been called up by the Sox June 22 from Iowa where he had hurled a no-hitter. He made seven appearances in a Sox uniform and had a 1-1 record.

SOX SHORTS: Bill Stein was the leading Sox hitter in July with a .403 average with 31 hits in 77 at bats . . . Ken Brett (6-5) is the Sox probable pitcher tonight in the finale of the series with Oakland . . . Paul Mitchell (7-5) is slated to pitch for the A's . . . After an off day Thursday, the Sox meet Kansas City in a five-game weekend series at Comiskey Park that includes doubleheaders Friday night and Sunday afternoon.

Win opener 4-0, lose 8-5

Cubs play Phillies even

If you would have told the Cubs that upon entering today's finale of the four-game series against Philadelphia the worst they could get was a split, you may have come up with one of the better punch lines of the season.

But after Tuesday's doubleheader split with the Phillies, the Cubs were in a position to humble what many people consider to be the best team in baseball this year by capturing three of the four games.

Rick Reuschel temporarily extended the Cubs' winning streak to five straight with a masterful 4-0 triumph in Tuesday's opener before the awesome Philadelphia attack awoke with an 8-5 triumph in the nightcap.

Still the Cubs could be proud of a show that entertained a weekday crowd of just under 28,000.

There were moments of brilliance and excitement in the key departments of hitting, pitching and fielding that have been ostensibly absent for the majority of the season.

Reuschel was crafty in scattering nine hits in the opener and besting wind-up-doll Jim Kaat to become the staff's first 10-game winner in a flash-flood time of one hour and 32 minutes.

Wayne Tyrone, subbing for injured Jose Cardenal, presented Reuschel with the only run he needed with a first-inning homer — his first in the majors.

The Cubs added two more off Kaat (10-6) in the seventh on run-scoring singles by George Mitterwald and Reuschel before capping the impressive triumph with Jerry Morales' 12th home run in the eighth.

On defense, centerfielder Joe Wallis brought back shades of Willie Mays with a sparkling over-the-shoulder catch of a deep drive off the bat of Mike Schmidt and Morales gunned down speedy Jerry Martin with a rifle throw from right to preserve the shutout in the fifth.

Philadelphia's bats came to life quickly in the second game as they pounded on Cub starter Steve Stone (2-4) for four runs in the first inning and another four spot in the fourth.

Tim McCarver's two-run single ignited the initial onslaught, but the Cubs bounced back with a pair of their own in the opening frame.

Highlighting the action was Wallis' sprint around the bases with an inside-the-park home run on a shot that careened off the leftfield bricks and past Greg Luzinski to the Cub bullpen.

Garry Maddox put the game out of reach in the fourth when he banged a grand slam home run in support of southpaw Steve Carlton who pitched seven innings to pick up his 12th victory against four defeats.

The slam was the seventh this year by the Phillies and tied the National League record held by the 1970 San Francisco Giants and the 1974 Cincinnati Reds.

The blast was set up on singles by McCarver and Larry Bowa and a walk to Dave Cash. Maddox responded with his sixth round-tripper of the season into the bleachers in left center field.

The Cubs drew within striking distance in the sixth when Bill Madlock unloaded his 11th home run with a man aboard to trim the Phillie lead to 8-5, but Ron Reed emerged from the winner's bullpen and hurled hitless relief.

The teams will complete the series today at 1:25 p.m. with Larry Christenson (10-5) slated to oppose Steve Renko (4-6) for the Cubs.

The Palatine Amateur Football Assn. (PAFA) will hold its final registration and equipment handout Saturday, Aug. 14 at Winston Park Junior High School. The session for students in fifth through eighth grades will be held from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

If your dog is lost or stolen . . .

The most important thing is to have information about the dog available so that you can get to it immediately. Many people will have their dog's description filed away somewhere in a bank vault box, or in some desk around the house and just can't remember where they put it.

When you call authorities the following information should be given: the dogs name, breed, age, size, color, sex, distinguishing marks (scars, special markings), photo if possible, tattoo number (if there is one), collar and license number.

Also, the circumstances of the loss: the date; just wandered away; last seen where, removed from yard or car, strange truck or car in the area (did someone get the license number?), description of strange person in area, your name, address, city and state, telephone number at home and at work.

There are a number of things that you should do, perhaps 10 at least. For example, have the above information. Inquire in the neighborhood, especially children, call the police, call pounds and shelters, put an advertisement in the newspapers, call the radio stations (perhaps the loss could also be announced in schools), put a notice on the bulletin boards at local stores, call city and county highway departments to see if dog was killed along the road (they are often buried near the spot), offer a reward and most important, be sure someone is at home to receive calls.

Matches coming up —

Antioch Kennel Club will have an all-breed conformation match and obedience trial on Saturday, Aug. 14, at the Flying D Ranch on Route 12, north of Wauconda. There will be calsses in conformation with puppies, two to four months up through adult dogs. Obedience will havs the regular classes plus sub-novice and graduate novice.

Every day was a thrill for 'Tito' Francona

by SKIP WACHTER

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. (UPI) — It's been six years since he traded the glamour of a 15-year major league baseball career to take over supervision of three parks in western Pennsylvania.

Now a new breed of players, skyrocketing salaries and tiresome travel somewhat dull the interest of the national pastime for John "Tito" Francona. His return to baseball is only a thought, and at least four years away.

"I left baseball with a good taste in my month," explains the congenial former first baseman-outfielder. "Every day was a thrill. But all the traveling got to be too much. After 15 years I had enough."

From roaring stadium crowds to country serenity is quite a change in lifestyle for Francona, but he's happy now as superintendent of parks and recreation in Beaver County. He oversees shelters and coordinates youth programs ranging from baseball, softball and tennis to horse and dog shows and art classes.

"I'm content," Francona, 43, said. "Here I'm indoors and outdoors. I'm involved in sports and I'm my own boss. There are a few guys working under me but we get along fine. No one bothers us."

Francona's youthful appearance — sun-bronzed face, neck and arms and long hair — indicate his enjoyment for his new position. And still present is the familiar chaw of tobacco nestled in his cheek.

He compiled a .273 lifetime batting average with nine teams, including the Cleveland Indians, with whom he once batted .363 and was named to the American League All-Star team.

At this particular moment, surrounded by pictures of career highlights, Francona mulled a routine question about his former occupation: "Do you miss it?"

"I'll tell ya," he said, chomping hard on his tobacco. "Not that much. More than anything I miss the guys I played with. I don't hear from them much any more.

"But my son and daughter are in high school now and my place is with them every day and every night. It's time to stick around."

Francona's son, Terry, 17, was recently mentioned in Sports Illustrated for leading his New Brighton American Legion team to a 14-0 record this season. He batted .739 and seldom yielded a base hit.

But, in the major leagues, Francona says the new breed of players lack dedication. That's why the game to him isn't what it used to be.

"Today's players are more educated and almost all hav agents," Francona explained. "They bargain for everything. "The nostalgia is gone from baseball. And the salaries are ridiculous."

Francona's not envious of the money dished out now. In fact, he said, "More power to them" if they get all they can.

"But nobody in baseball is worth $100,000," he said. "Well, maybe one or two are, but I can't see a guy making $40,000 - $50,000 for sitting on the bench. When I played, the general manager said. 'You'll play for this much or not at all,' and you took it or you sat out. I never felt cheated."

Looking to the future, Francona admitted wanting to try coaching or managing — in the majors only — but not for at least four years.

"It'll be tough to get a chance, though," he said, smiling. "A few years out of the game and people forget about you."

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

If your dog is lost or stolen . . .

The most important thing is to have information about the dog available so that you can get to it immediately. Many people will have their dog's description filed away somewhere in a bank vault box, or in some desk around the house and just can't remember where they put it.

When you call authorities the following information should be given: the dogs name, breed, age, size, color, sex, distinguishing marks (scars, special markings), photo if possible, tattoo number (if there is one), collar and license number.

Also, the circumstances of the loss: the date; just wandered away; last seen where, removed from yard or car, strange truck or car in the area (did someone get the license number?), description of strange person in area, your name, address, city and state, telephone number at home and at work.

There are a number of things that you should do, perhaps 10 at least. For example, have the above information. Inquire in the neighborhood, especially children, call the police, call pounds and shelters, put an advertisement in the newspapers, call the radio stations (perhaps the loss could also be announced in schools), put a notice on the bulletin boards at local stores, call city and county highway departments to see if dog was killed along the road (they are often buried near the spot), offer a reward and most important, be sure someone is at home to receive calls.
